At the Court at Brighton, the 31st day of January 1831,

PRESENT,

The KING's Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

WHEREAS by an Act, passed in the sixth year of the reign of His late Majesty King George the Fourth, intituled "An Act to regulate the trade "of the British possessions abroad," it is, amongst other things, enacted, that certain ports, therein particularly mentioned, in the island of Jamaica, and in the provinces of Nova Scotia, Canada, and New Brunswick, and in the island of Barbadoes, shall be free warehousing ports for the purposes of the said Act; and it is further enacted, that it shall be lawful for His Majesty in Council, from time to time, to appoint any port in His Majesty's possessions in America to be a free warehousing port for the purposes of the said Act; and that every such port, so appointed by His Majesty, shall be a free warehousing port under the said Act, as if appointed by the same, in as full and ample a manner in all respects as any of the ports thereinbefore mentioned are free warehousing ports appointed by the said Act:

And whereas His Majesty doth deem it expedient, that the port of Saint George, in the island of Grenada, should be appointed a free warehousing port for the purposes of the said Act, His Majesty doth therefore, by and with the advice of His Privy Council, and in pursuance and exercise of the powers in him vested in and by the said Act of Parliament, order and appoint, that the said port of Saint George, in the island of Grenada, shall be a free warehousing port for the purposes of the said Act:

And the Right Honourable the Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury, and the Right Honourable Viscount Goderich, one of His Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, are to give the necessary directions herein as to them may respectively appertain. C. C. Greville.

St.

St. James's-Palace, March 9, 1831.

This day the Right Honourable the Lord Mayor, the Aldermen, Recorder, Sheriffs, Common Council, and Officers of the City of London, waited upon His Majesty with the following Address; which was read by Newman Knowlys, Esq. the Recorder; and which His Majesty was graciously pleased to receive on the Throne:

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

The humble, dutiful, and loyal Address of the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Commons of the City of London, in Common Council assembled.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE, your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Commons of the City of London, in Common Council assembled, most humbly approach your Majesty with the warmest sentiments of loyalty and attachment to your Majesty's sacred Person and Government.

We beg to assure your Majesty, that having long entertained a deep and increasing conviction of the necessity of a reform in the representation of the people in the Commons' House of Parliament, we have looked forward with the greatest anxiety to the course which your Majesty's Ministers would adopt in reference to that important subject; and we now feel ourselves imperatively called upon, humbly and dutifully to express to your Majesty our entire satisfaction at the principles of the measure that has been introduced, under their sanction, to the Honourable House of Commons.

We beg leave further to represent to your Majesty, that your Majesty's Ministers having entered office office under a distinct pledge to bring forward efficient measures of reform in the representation of the people, we delayed to express any feeling upon the change which then took place in your Majesty's Councils until those measures were submitted to Parliament, but being now satisfied that the plan introduced under their sanction is eminently calculated to uphold the dignity of your Majesty's Crown, and to promote the true interests and happiness of all classes of your Majesty's subjects, we feel it to be our duty humbly to express to your Majesty our conviction, that your Majesty's Ministers have fully redeemed the important pledge made by them on their acceptanee of office, and have thereby entitled themselves to the unlimited confidence of the country.

We, therefore, beg leave humbly to tender to your Majesty our grateful thanks for your Majesty's paternal care, in the formation of an Administration animated by a sincere desire to adopt, in the reformation of our institutions, a system that will unite all classes of your Majesty's subjects, preserve and strengthen our national security, uphold the honour and dignity of your Majesty's Crown, and promote the happiness and liberties of your Majesty's people

Signed, by order of Court,

Henry Woodthorpe.

To which Address His Majesty was pleased to return the following most gracious Answer:

" I return you my warmest thanks for this dutiful and loyal Address.

" I receive with the most lively satisfaction the assurances of your loyalty and attachment to my Person, together with the declaration, that the confidence which I repose in my present Ministers is also also felt by the Citizens of this great and wealthy metropolis.

" You may rest assured that I shall always consider the measures which may be proposed to me, either in my executive or my legislative capacity, with reference only to their tendency to maintain the honour and dignity of my Crown, to support the true principles of the Constitution, and to promote the union and happiness of my people."

They were all received very graciously, and had the honour of kissing the King's hand.

A PROCLAMATION.

WILLIAM, R.

WHEREAS We have thought fit to order that certain pieces of money should be coined, that is to say, certain pieces of gold money, to be called respectively double sovereigns, sovereigns, and half sovereigns; and certain pieces of silver money, to be called respectively crowns, half crowns, shillings, and sixpences; and certain pieces of copper money, to be called respectively pence, half pence, and farthings; to be of the several values and weights hereinafter particularly described, that is to say, the double sovereigns to be each of the value of forty shillings, and of the weight of ten pennyweights, six grains, and $\frac{5}{1}\frac{4}{0}\frac{8}{0}\frac{0}{0}$ troy weight, of standard gold; and the sovereigns each of the value of twenty shillings, and of the weight of five pennyweights, three grains, and $\frac{2}{1}\frac{7}{0}\frac{4}{0}\frac{0}{0}$ troy weight, of standard gold; and the half sovereigns each of the value of ten shillings, and of the weight of two pennyweights, thirteen grains, $\frac{6}{1}\frac{3}{0}\frac{7}{0}\frac{0}{0}$ troy weight, of standard gold, according to the weight approved of and confirmed by Our Royal Brother, His late Majesty King George the Fourth, in Council, in pursuance of an Act, made in the fourteenth year of the reign of Our Royal Father King George the Third, intituled "An Act for regulating and ascer- "taining the weight to be made use of in weighing "the gold and silver coin of this kingdom:" and whereas by an Act, passed in the fifteenth year of the reign of Our Royal Father, His late Majesty King George the Third, intituled "An Act to pro- "vide for a new silver coinage, and to regulate the "gold and silver coinage of the realm," the Master and Worker of Our Mint in London was empowered to coin silver bullion into silver coins, consisting of crowns, half crowns, shillings, and sixpences, of the standard of eleven ounces and two pennyweights of fine silver and eighteen pennyweights of alloy to the pound troy, and in weight after the rate of sixty-six shillings to the pound troy: and whereas, in virtue of the power so given, a coinage of crowns or five shilling pieces, half crowns or pieces of the value of two shillings and sixpence each, at the rate and of the standard aforesaid, has been made, as well as a coinage of copper pieces, called respectively pence, half pence, and farthings: and whereas We have further ordered that such double sovereigns shall have for the obverse impression Our effigy, with the inscription "Gulielmus IIII, D. G. Britanniarum Rex F. D." and for the reverse the ensigns armorial of the United Kingdom contained in a shield, encircled by the collar of the Order of the Garter, mantled and surmounted by the Royal Crown, with the date of the year, and upon the edge of the piece the words "Decus et Tutamen," and the year of Our reign; and that every such gold sovereign and every such half sovereign so ordered to be coined, shall have for the obverse impression Our effigy, with the same inscription and date, and for the reverse the ensigns armorial of the United Kingdom contained in a shield, plain, with the date of the year, and a graining on the edge of the piece; and every such crown has for the obverse and reverse impressions the same effigy, inscriptions, and dates as are hereby ordered for each double sovereign; and every such half crown has for the obverse and reverse impressions the same effigy, inscriptions, dates, and graining as are hereby ordered for each sovereign; and every such shilling has for the obverse impression the same effigy, inscription, and date, and for the reverse the words "one shilling," placed in the centre of the piece, within a wreath, having an olive branch on one side, and an oak branch on the other; and the sixpences have the same obverse and reverse impressions as those upon the shilling, except the word "sixpence," instead of the words "one shilling:" and We have also thought fit to order that each of the said penny pieces, half penny pieces, and farthings shall have the same obverse impression, effigy, inscription, and date, and for the reverse the figure of Britannia: and whereas pieces of money of all the above descriptions have been coined at Our Mint, and will be coined there, in pursuance of orders issued by Us, We have therefore, by and with the advice of Our Privy Council, thought fit to issue this Our Royal Proclamation, and We do hereby ordain, declare, and command that the said pieces of money so coined, and to be coined, shall be current and lawful money of the Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and shall be called by the several names, and shall pass and be received as current and lawful money of the Kingdom, at the several values hereinbefore assigned to them, in all payments whatsoever.

FROM THE

SUPPLEMENT

TO THE

LONDON GAZETTE of APRIL 22, 1831.

St. James's-Palace, April 22, 1831.

THIS day His Majesty proceeded in state from St. James's-Palace to the House of Peers, where he arrived about three o'clock; and, having alighted from the state coach, was received at the portico by the Great Officers of State and others, and proceeded to the robing-room in the customary manner.

His Majesty was there robed, and the procession moved into the House in the usual order.

His Majesty being seated upon the Throne, the Great Officers of State and others standing on the right and left, Sir Thomas Tyrwhitt, Knt. Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod, was sent with a message from His Majesty to the House of Commons, commanding their attendance in the House of Peers. The Commons being come thither accordingly, His Majesty was pleased to deliver the following most gracious Speech to both Houses of Parliament:

My Lords, and Gentlemen,

I HAVE come to meet you for the purpose of proproroguing this Parliament, with a view to its immediate dissolution.

I have been induced to resort to this measure for the purpose of ascertaining the sense of My People, in the way in which it can be most constitutionally and authentically expressed, on the expediency of making such changes in the Representation as circumstances may appear to require, and which, founded upon the acknowledged principles of the Constitution, may tend at once to uphold the just rights and prerogatives of the Crown, and to give security to the liberties of the People.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons,

I thank you for the provision you have made for the maintenance of the honour and dignity of the Crown, and I offer you my special acknowledgments for the arrangements you have made for the state and comfort of My Royal Consort; I have also to thank you for the supplies which you have furnished for the public service; I have observed with satisfaction your endeavours to introduce a strict economy into every branch of that service; and I trust that the early attention of a new Parliament, which I shall forthwith direct to be called, will be applied to the prosecution of that important object.

My Lords, and Gentlemen,

I am happy to inform you, that the friendly intercourse which subsists between Myself and Foreign Powers, affords the best hopes of the continuance of Peace, to the preservation of which My most anxious endeavours will be constantly directed.

My Lords, and Gentlemen,

In resolving to recur to the sense of My People, in the present circumstances of the Country, I have been influenced only by a paternal anxiety for the contentment and happiness of My Subjects, to promote which I rely with confidence on your continued and zealous assistance.

Then the Lord Chancellor, by His Majesty's command, prorogued the Parliament accordingly.

LONDON GAZETTE EXTRAORDINARY of APRIL 23, 1831.

By the KING.

A PROCLAMATION,

For dissolving the present Parliament, and declaring the calling of another.

WILLIAM, R.

WHEREAS We have thought fit, by and with the advice of Our Privy Council, to dissolve this present Parliament, which stands prorogued to Tuesday the tenth day of May next: We do for that end publish this Our Royal Proclamation, and do hereby dissolve the said Parliament accordingly; and the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and the Knights, Citizens, and Burgesses, and the Commissioners for shires and burghs, of the House of Commons are discharged from their meeting and attendance on the said Tuesday the tenth day of May next: and We, being being desirous and resolved, as soon as may be, to meet Our people, and to have their advice in Parliament, do hereby make known to all Our loving subjects Our Royal will and pleasure to call a new Parliament: and do hereby further declare, that, with the advice of Our Privy Council, We have given order to Our Chancellor of that part of Our United Kingdom called Great Britain, and Our Chancellor of Ireland, that they do respectively, upon notice thereof, forthwith issue out writs in due form, and according to law, for calling a new Parliament: and We do hereby also, by this Our Royal Proclamation under Our Great Seal of Our United Kingdom, require writs forthwith to be issued accordingly by Our said Chancellors respectively, for causing the Lords Spiritual and Temporal and Commons, who are to serve in the said Parliament, to be duly returned to, and give their attendance in, Our said Parliament; which writs are to be returnable on Tuesday the fourteenth day of June next.

Given at Our Court at St. James's, this twenty-third day of April one thousand eight hundred and thirty-one, and in the first year of Our reign.

GOD save the KING.

By the KING.

A PROCLAMATION,

In order to the electing and summoning the Sixteen Peers of Scotland.

WILLIAM, R.

WHEREAS We have in Our Council thought fit to declare Our pleasure, for summoning and hold-holding a Parliament of Our United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, on Tuesday the fourteenth day of June next ensuing the date hereof; in order, therefore, to the electing and summoning the Sixteen Peers of Scotland, who are to sit in the House of Peers in the said Parliament: We do, by the advice of Our Privy Council, issue forth this Our Royal Proclamation, strictly charging and commanding all the Peers of Scotland to assemble and meet at Holyrood-House, in Edinburgh, on Friday the third day of June next ensuing, between the hours of twelve and two in the afternoon, to nominate and choose the sixteen Peers, to sit and vote in the House of Peers in the said ensuing Parliament, by open election and plurality of voices of the Peers that shall be then present, and of the proxies of such as shall be absent (such proxies being Peers, and producing a mandate in writing, duly signed before witnesses, and both the constituent and proxy being qualified according to law), and the Lord Clerk Register, or such two of the Principal Clerks of the Session as shall be appointed by him to officiate in his name, are hereby respectively required to attend such meeting, and to administer the oaths required by law to be taken there by the said Peers, and to take their votes; and immediately after such election made and duly examined, to certify the names of the Sixteen Peers so elected, and to sign and attest the same in the presence of the said Peers the electors, and return such certificate into Our High Court of Chancery of Great Britain. And We do, by this Our Royal Proclamation, strictly command and require the Provost of Edinburgh, and all other the Magistrates of the said city, to take especial care to preserve the peace thereof, during the time of the said election, and to prevent all manner of riots, tumults, disorders, and violence whatsoever. And We strictly charge and command that this Our Royal Royal Proclamation be duly published at the Market-Cross at Edinburgh, and in all the county towns of Scotland, twenty-five days, at least, before the time hereby appointed for the meeting of the said Peers to proceed to such election.

Witness Ourself at Westminster, this twenty-third day of April one thousand eight hundred and thirty-one, and in the first year of Our reign.

GOD save the KING.

A PROCLAMATION.

WILLIAM, R.

WHEREAS by an Act, passed in the fifty-ninth year of the reign of His late Majesty King George the Third, chapter 25th, intituled "An "Act to enable His Majesty to fix a rate and direct "the disposal of freight money for the conveyance "of specie and jewels on board His Majesty's ships "and vessels," it is enacted, that from and after the eighth day of April one thousand eight hundred and nineteen, all freight money to be paid for the conveyance on board any of the ships and vessels of His Majesty, of gold, silver, and jewels, or of any other article which may by special order be received on board, and for which freight shall be payable, shall be paid at such rate and be distributed and applied for such purposes, and divided to and amongst such persons in such proportions and after such manner as His Majesty, His heirs and successors should from time to time think fit to order and direct by any Proclamation or Proclamations to be issued for that purpose; in pursuance of which Act a Proclamation was on the twelfth day of July following, made and issued by His Royal Highness the then Prince Regent, in the name and on the behalf of His said Majesty, whereby, amongst other things, a scale of rates at which freights should be payable for public and for private treasure respectively, in peace and war and for different voyages, was fixed and established; and whereas We have thought fit to order that the said rates should be altered, We have, therefore, by and with the advice of Our Privy Council, deemed it expedient to issue this Our Royal Proclamation; and We do hereby ordain, declare, and command, that from and after the first day of September next, the said scale of rates so fixed shall cease and be no longer in force; and We do further declare, that from thenceforth the following rates shall be established during peace and war: .

	For Crown Treasure.	For Treasure belonging to other Parties.
		Peace and War.
		Gold or Jewels.	Silver.
	Per Cent.	Per Ct.	Per Ct.

For any distance of two thousand leagues and upwards - - -	1	$1\frac{1}{2}$	2

And it is further established and declared, that such freight shall be payable, clear of all deduction whatsoever; and that it shall be stipulated in the bill of lading, that the Captains and Commanding Officers of Our ships and vessels shall not be liable to any expences attending the shipment of such treasure or other articles, until the same shall be safe alongside of their respective ships or vessels; and that their liability shall cease from the moment they shall shall have landed the treasure at the port to which the ships carrying the treasure shall be destined.

And it is further declared, that in all other respects, save what is hereby altered, the said Proclamation of the twelfth day of July one thousand eight hundred and nineteen, and the rates and regulations thereby established, shall continue in full force.

Given at Our Court at St. James's, this twenty-third day of April one thousand eight hundred and thirty-one, and in the first year of Our reign.

White-

Whitehall, May 11, 1831.

Whereas under the Royal Charter of Confirmation, granted by His late Majesty King James the Second, to the ancient Body of Shipmen and Mariners of England, commonly called "the Corporation of Trinity-house of Deptford Strond," the Members of the said Corporation are, in themselves, their servants, apprentices, and ships, to be charged and employed, at one hour's warning, in His Majesty's service at sea, in and for the good and necessary defence of His Majesty's realms and kingdoms: and it hath long been the usage for the Master, Deputy Master, and other Elder Brethren of the said Corporation, to wear an appropriate uniform;

His Majesty hath been graciously pleased to take the premises into His royal consideration, and having regard to the duty and service with which the Members of the said Corporation are especially charged as aforesaid, hath directed that the uniform to be henceforth worn by the Master, Deputy Master, and other Elder Brethren of the said Corporation, shall be as follows, viz.

Coat—Blue cloth, with a scarlet cloth stand up collar; a slashed sleeve, with scarlet three pointed flap, and three buttons and button holes; a scarlet cuff; pocket flaps, with three points and three buttons; the body of the coat lined with the same cloth, and the skirts lined with white kerseymere; the buttons to be raised gilt, seven eighth parts of an inch in diameter, and convex, bearing a shield quartered with the arms of the Corporation, and having the motto, "Trinitas in Unitate," forming a three quarter circle round the lower part thereof: in all other respects the coat is to accord with the pattern which has been approved by His Majesty.

Waistcoat—Single breasted white kerseymere, with buttons, one half of an inch in diameter, of the same pattern as those on the coat.

Trowsers—Of blue cloth, from the 1st November to 30th April; and of white Russia drill, from the 1st May to 31st October; and to be worn at all times over boots.

Cravat—Black silk.

Hat—Round black.

On all occasions of attendance upon His Majesty, or when present at the King's or Queen's Drawing-Rooms, or when employed on the especial duty and service before mentioned, and on other occasions of an especial description, the Master, Deputy Master, and other Elder Brethren, are to wear gold epaulettes, swords, and cocked hats with cockades, of the patterns respectively which have been approved by His Majesty.

At

At the Council-Chamber, Whitehall, the 23d of May 1831,

PRESENT,

The Lords of His Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council.

WHEREAS by an Act, passed in the sixth year of the reign of His late Majesty King George the Fourth, intituled " An Act to repeal the several " laws relating to the performance of quarantine, " and to make other provisions in lieu thereof," it is, amongst other things, enacted, that it shall and may be lawful for the Lords and others of His Majesty's Privy Council, or any two or more of them, to make such Order as they shall see necessary and expedient upon any unforeseen emergency, or in any particular case or cases, with respect to any vessel arriving and having any infectious disease or distemper on board, or on board of which any infectious disease or distemper may have appeared in the course of the voyage, or arriving under any other alarming or suspicious circumstances as to infection, although such vessels shall not have come from any place from which His Majesty, His heirs or successors, by and with the advice of His Privy Council, may have adjudged and declared it probable that the plague, or any such infectious disease or distemper, may be brought; and also with respect to the persons, goods, wares, and merchandise, and other articles as aforesaid on board the same; and that all such Orders so made by the Lords or others of the Privy Council, or any two or more of them as aforesaid, shall be as good, valid, and effectual to all intents and purposes (as well with respect to the Commander, Master, or other person having the charge of any vessel, and all other persons sons on board the same, as with respect to any other persons having any intercourse or communication with them, and to the penalties, forfeitures, and punishments to which they may respectively become liable), as any Order or Orders made by His Majesty, His heirs, or successors, by and with the advice of His or their Privy Council, concerning quarantine, notified by Proclamation or published in the London Gazette:

And whereas advices have been received that the cholera morbus has lately been making alarming progress in certain provinces of the Russian empire, it is hereby ordered in Council, that all vessels coming from, or having touched at, any port or place in Russia, and bound to any port or place in the United Kingdom, or to the islands of Guernsey, Jersey, Alderney, Sark, or Man (having clean bills of health), as well as all vessels, boats, and persons having had communication with such vessels, shall proceed to such of the under-mentioned ports as may be the nearest and most convenient to their port of destination, viz. Cromarty-bay, in the Murray Frith; to the anchorage in the Frith of Tay, near Dundee; in the Frith of Forth, between the North Queen's-ferry and Lord Elgin's Lime-kilns; White Booth-roads (between Hull and Grimsby); Standgate-creek; the Motherbank, at Portsmouth; Plymouth; Falmouth; Milford-haven; Bromboro'-pool (in the River Mersey, near Liverpool); Holy-loch, in the Frith of Clyde; and shall there perform quarantine, and be subject with their crews, pilots, and all persons having communication with such vessels, to all the rules and regulations established by His late Majesty's Order in Council, of the nineteenth of July one thousand eight hundred and twenty-five:

And the Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Trea-

Treasury, the Commissioners for executing the office of Lord High Admiral of Great Britain, the Lord Warden of the Cinque Ports, the Master-General and the rest of the Principal Officers of the Ordnance, His Majesty's Secretary at War, and the Governors and Commanders in Chief for the time being of the said isles of Guernsey, Jersey, Alderney, Sark, and Man, are to give the necessary directions herein as to them may respectively appertain.

Wm. L. Bathurst.

Notice is hereby given, that the Court mourning is not to be worn at the Drawing-Room, at St. James's-Palace, to-morrow the 28th instant, being the day appointed for the celebration of His Majesty's Birth-day.

At the Court at St. James's, the 18th day of May 1831,

PRESENT,

The KING's Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

WHEREAS by an Act, passed in the sixth year of His late Majesty's reign, intituled "An "Act to regulate the trade of the British pos- "sessions abroad," it is, amongst other things, enacted, that certain ports, therein particularly mentioned, in the island of Jamaica, and in the provinces of Nova Scotia, Canada, and New Brunswick, and in the island of Barbadoes, shall be free warehousing ports for the purposes of the said Act; and it is further enacted, that it shall be lawful for His Majesty in Council, from time to time, to appoint any port in His Majesty's possessions in America, to be a free warehousing port for the purposes of the said Act; and that every such port, so appointed by His Majesty, shall be a free warehousing port under the said Act, as if appointed by the same, in as full and ample a manner in all respects as any of the ports thereinbefore mentioned are free warehousing ports appointed by the said Act:

And whereas His Majesty doth deem it expedient, that the port of Road Harbour, in the island of Tortola, should be appointed a free warehousing port for the purposes of the said Act, His Majesty doth therefore, by and with the advice of His Privy Council, and in pursuance and exercise of the powers in him vested, in and by the said Act of Parliament, order and appoint, that the said port of Road Harbour, in the island of Tortola, shall be a free warehousing port for the purposes of the said Act:

And

FROM THE

LONDON GAZETTE of MAY 31, 1831.

Whitehall, May 31, 1831.

AN Address from the Bailiffs and Inhabitants of the Town and Parish of Brading and Vicinity thereof, in the Isle of Wight, thanking His Majesty for having dissolved the late Parliament, has been laid before His Majesty, and graciously received.

At the Court at St. James's, May 27, 1831.

A Chapter of the Most Noble Order of the Garter having been summoned for this day, the following Knights Companions, in their mantles and collars, assembled in the Entrée-room, viz.

His Royal Highness the Prince Leopold of Saxe Coburg, the Earl of Westmorland, the Duke of Rutland, the Duke of Beaufort, the Duke of Dorset, the Duke of Devonshire, the Marquess of Exeter, and the Duke of Richmond, attended by the Officers of the Order, in their mantles, chains, and badges, viz. the Lord Bishop of Winchester, Prelate of the Order; the Lord Bishop of Salisbury, Chancellor of the Order; the Honourable and Reverend the Dean of Windsor, Register of the Order; Sir George Nayler, Knight, Garter Principal King of Arms; and Sir Thomas Tyrwhitt, Knight, Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod.

At

At three o'eloek, the Knights Companions were called over by Garter, and, with the Officers of the Order, proceeded into the presenee of the Sovereign, in the Throne-room.

The Sovereign being seated in the ehair of state, the Knights Companions took their respeetive seats at the table aceording to the order of their stalls, and the Officers of the Order stood in their aecustomed plaees.

By eommand of the Sovereign, Earl Grey was then introdueed into the Royal Presenee, preeeded by Garter and Black Rod, and was knighted by His Majesty with the sword of state, after which his Lordship, having kissed the Sovereign's hand, retired.

Then the Register (acting for the Chancellor of the Order), by the Sovereign's command, read a new statute, setting forth that His Majesty, being desirous of evincing in an especial manner his gracious approbation of the distinguished and eminent merits and services manifested and rendered to His Majesty by His Right Trusty and Right Well-beloved Cousin and Counеillor, Charles Earl Grey, First Lord of His Majesty's Treasury, was pleased, in virtue of the power and authority inherent in him as Sovereign, to dispense with all statutes and regulations observed within this Most Noble Order, and particularly with the statute whereby the number of Knights Companions is limited, in as far as may be requisite for the especial purpose of admitting the said Earl into the said Order, and to deeree, ordain, and enjoin, that the said Charles Earl Grey be declared a Knight of this Most Noble Order, any statute, deeree, rule, or usage to the eontrary notwithstanding.

The Chancellor having aeeordingly announeed to the Chapter, that Charles Earl Grey had been declared a Knight of the Most Noble Order of the Garter, his Lordship was reeeived at the door of the Chapter-room by the Marquess of Exeter and the Duke of of Richmond, the two Junior Knights Companions present, and was conducted between them to His Majesty, preceded by Garter (bearing the ensigns of the Order upon a crimson velvet cushion) and by Black Rod. The Earl, kneeling near the Sovereign, and Garter presenting on his knee the Garter, His Majesty, assisted by His Royal Highness the Prince Leopold of Saxe Coburg and the Earl of Westmorland, the two Senior Knights Companions present, buckled it on his Lordship's left leg, the Chancellor pronouncing the usual admonition.

Garter next presented, in like manner, the ribband with the George, and His Majesty, with the assistance of the said two Knights Companions, put the same over Earl Grey's left shoulder, the Chancellor pronouncing the admonition; after which his Lordship had again the honour to kiss the Sovereign's hand.

Then the Register read a statute, reciting that whereas the number of Knights Companions of this Most Noble Order was limited in manner set forth in the statutes, and His Majesty having, in virtue of the power inherent in him, thought fit, for divers high reasons and considerations him thereunto especially moving, to dispense with the said statutes, and to declare His faithful Subject and Councillor, Charles Earl Grey, to be a Knight of the said Order, thereby increasing the number of Knights Subjects, not being of the Blood Royal, it is nevertheless His Majesty's intent and meaning, that no further election of any of His Majesty's subjects, not being of the Blood Royal, into the said Order shall take place, until the vacancy of a stall of a Knight Subject, not of the Blood Royal, shall have happened, subsequent to the reduction of Knights Subjects, not of the Blood Royal, to the number directed by the statutes.

Earl Grey thereupon received the congratulations of each of the Knights Companions, and withdrew.

The

The Chapter being ended, Garter, by command of the Sovereign, again called over the Knights Companions, and a procession was made to the Royal Closet in the same order as before.

At the Court at St. James's, May 27, 1831.

The King, as Sovereign of the Most Noble Order of the Garter, has been graciously pleased, by letters patent under his royal sign manual and the great seal of the Order, bearing date this day, to dispense with all the statutes and regulations usually observed in regard to installation, and to grant unto the Right Honourable Charles Earl Grey, Knight of the said Most Noble Order, and duly invested with the ensigns thereof, full power and authority to exercise all rights and privileges belonging to a Knight Companion of the Most Noble Order of the Garter, in as full and ample a manner as if his Lordship had been formally installed, any decree, rule, or usage to the contrary notwithstanding.

Whitehall, May 31, 1831.

The King has been pleased to direct letters patent to be passed under the Great Seal, granting the dignity of a Baron of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland unto the Right Honourable William George Earl of Erroll, and the heirs male of his body lawfully begotten, by the name, stile, and title of Baron Kilmarnock, of Kilmarnock, in the county of Ayr.

His Royal Highness the Duke of Cumberland; His Royal Highness the Duke of Gloucester; Sir Alured Clarke; Lord Howden; Lord Viscount Beresford; Lord Hill; Lord Viscount Combermere; Sir John Doyle, Bart.; Sir William Henry Clinton; the Right Honourable Sir James Kempt; the Duke of Gordon; and Sir George Martin; attended by the under-named Officers of the

the Order, in their mantles, chains, and badges, viz. Sir George Nayler, Knt. Gencalogist of the Order; Algernon Greville, Esq. Bath King of Arms; Captain Michael Seymour, R. N. Register and Secretary of the Order; and George-Frederick Beltz, Esq. Gentleman Usher of the Order.

At two o'clock, the Knights Grand Crosses were called over, and, with the Officers of the Order, proceeded into the presence of the Sovereign in the Throne-room, with the usual reverences.

Then, by His Majesty's command, Admiral Sir Henry Trollope was introduced into the presence, between the two Junior Knights Grand Crosses present, preceded by Bath King of Arms, bearing the ribband, badge, and star of a Grand Cross of the Order upon a crimson velvet cushion, and by the Gentleman Usher of the Order.

His Royal Highness the Duke of Cumberland having thereupon received from Bath King of Arms the ribband and badge, presented them to the Sovereign, and Sir Henry Trollope kneeling, His Majesty was graciously pleased to put the same over the Admiral's left shoulder; Sir Henry, rising, had the honour to kiss the Sovereign's hand, and, having received from His Majesty the star of the Order, retired.

Admiral the Honourable Sir Robert Stopford and Admiral Sir Benjamin Hallowell-Carew were then severally introduced and invested, with the like ceremonies.

The Knights Grand Crosses were then again called over, and, with the Officers of the Order, retired from the presence of the Sovereign, with the usual reverences.

FROM THE

SUPPLEMENT

TO THE

LONDON GAZETTE of JUNE 10, 1831.

At the Court at St. James's, the 8th day of June 1831,

PRESENT,

The KING's Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

WHEREAS by an Act, passed in the last Session of Parliament, intituled "An Act to repeal "the several laws relating to the performance "of quarantine, and to make other provisions in lieu thereof," it is, amongst other things, enacted, that, from and after the first day of June one thousand eight hundred and twenty-five, all vessels, as well His Majesty's ships of war as others, coming from, or having touched at, any place from whence His Majesty, His heirs or successors, by and with the advice of His or their Privy Council, shall have adjudged and declared it probable that the plague, or other infectious disease or distemper, highly dangerous to the health of His Majesty's subjects, may be brought, and all vessels and boats receiving any person, goods, wares, and merchandize, packets, packages, baggage, wearing apparel, books, letters, or any other articles whatsoever, from or out of any any vessel so coming from, or having touched at, such infected place as aforesaid, whether such persons, goods, wares, and merchandize, packets, packages, baggage, wearing apparel, books, letters, or other articles, shall have come or been brought in such vessels, or such persons shall have gone, or articles have been put on board the same, either before or after the arrival of such ships or vessels at any port or place in the United Kingdom, or the islands of Guernsey, Jersey, Alderney, Sark, or Man, and whether such vessels were or were not bound to any port or place in the United Kingdom, or the islands aforesaid; and all persons, goods, wares, and merchandize, packets, packages, baggage, wearing apparel, books, letters, or any other articles whatsoever, on board any vessels so coming from, or having touched at, such infected place as aforesaid, or on board of any such receiving vessels or boats as aforesaid, shall be, and be considered to be, liable to quarantine within the meaning of the said Act; and of any Order or Orders which shall be made by His Majesty, His heirs, or successors, by and with the advice of His or their Privy Council concerning quarantine, and the prevention of infection, from the time of the departure of such vessels from such infected place as aforesaid, or from the time when such persons, goods, wares, merchandize, packets, packages, baggage, wearing apparel, books, letters, or other articles, shall have been received on board respectively, and that such vessels and boats as aforesaid, and all persons (as well pilots as others) goods, wares, and merchandizes, and other articles as aforesaid, whether coming or brought in such vessels or boats from such infected place as aforesaid, or going or being put on board the same, either before or after the arrival of such vessels or boats at any port or place in the United Kingdom, or the islands aforesaid, and all persons, goods, wares, and merchandize, and other articles as aforesaid, on board such receiving vessel or boat as aforesaid, shall upon their arrival at any such port or place, be obliged to perform quarantine in such place or places, for such time, and in such manner, as shall from time to time be directed by His Majesty, His heirs or successors, by His or their Order or Orders in Council, notified by proclamation, or published in the London Gazette, and that until such vessels and boats, persons, goods, wares, and merchandizes, and other articles as aforesaid, shall have respectively performed, and shall be duly discharged from quarantine, no such person, goods, wares, or merchandize, or other articles as aforesaid, or any of them, shall, either before or after the arrival of such vessels or boats, at any port or place in the United Kingdom, or the islands aforesaid, come or be brought on shore, or go or be put on board any other vessel or boat, in order to come or be brought on shore, in any such port or place, although such vessels so coming from such infected place as aforesaid, may not be bound to any port or place in the United Kingdom, or the islands aforesaid, unless in such manner and in such cases, and by such licence as shall be directed or permitted by such Order or Orders made by His Majesty, His heirs or successors, in Council as aforesaid, and that all such vessels and boats, whether coming from such infected place as aforesaid, or being otherwise liable to quarantine as aforesaid, and all persons (as well pilots as others) goods, wares, and merchandize, and other articles as aforesaid, whether coming or brought in such vessels or boats, or going or being put on board the same, either before or after the arrival of such vessels or boats at any port or place in the United Kingdom, or the islands aforesaid, and although such vessels or boats shall not be bound to any port or place in the United King-

Kingdom, or the islands aforesaid, and that all commanders, masters, or other persons having the charge or command of any vessels or boats, whether coming from any infected place, or being otherwise liable to quarantine as aforesaid, shall be subject to all the provisions, rules, regulations, and restrictions contained in the said Act, or in any Order or Orders which shall be made by His Majesty, His heirs and successors, in Council as aforesaid, concerning quarantine and the prevention of infection, and to all the pains, penalties, forfeitures, and punishments contained in the said Act for any breach or disobedience thereof, or of any Order or Orders of His Majesty in Council made under the authority thereof; and whereas information hath been received that the cholera morbus has lately been making alarming progress in certain provinces of the Russian Empire, His Majesty, under the authority of the said above recited Act, by and with the advice of His Privy Council, doth hereby adjudge and declare it probable that the said disease is highly dangerous to the health of His Majesty's subjects, and may be brought into the United Kingdom, or the islands of Guernsey, Jersey, Alderney, Sark, or Man, by vessels coming from, or having touched at, certain ports or places of the Continent of Europe, which are hereinafter more particularly described, either with or without clean bills of health; and His Majesty is therefore pleased, by and with the advice of His Privy Council, to order, and it is hereby ordered, that all vessels coming from, or having touched at, any port or place in Russia, or any port or place in the Baltic, or in the Cattegat Sea, or any port or place on the Elbe, and bound to any port or place in the United Kingdom, or to the islands of Guernsey, Jersey, Alderney, Sark, or Man (having clean bills of health), as well as all vessels, boats, and persons having had communication with such vessels, shall proceed to such of the under-mentioned ports as may be the nearest and most convenient to their port of destination, viz. Cromarty-bay, in the Murray Frith, to the anchorage in the Frith of Tay, near Dundee, in the Frith of Forth, between the North Queen's-ferry and Lord Elgin's Lime-kilns; White Booth-roads, (between Hull and Grimsby); Standgate-creek; the Motherbank, at Portsmouth; Plymouth; Falmouth; Milford-haven; Bromboro'-pool (in the river Mersey, near Liverpool); Holy-loch, in the Frith of Clyde; and all vessels arriving with foul bills of health, or coming (without bills of health) from any port or place where the cholera is known to prevail, shall proceed either to Cromarty-bay, in the Murray Frith, to Standgate-creek or to Milford-haven, and shall there perform quarantine, and be subject, with their crews, pilots, and all persons having communication with such vessels, to all the rules and regulations established by His late Majesty's Order in Council, of the nineteenth of July one thousand eight hundred and twenty-five:

And the Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury, the Commissioners for executing the office of Lord High Admiral of Great Britain, the Lord Warden of the Cinque Ports, the Master-General and the rest of the Principal Officers of the Ordnance, His Majesty's Secretary at War, and the Governors and Commanders in Chief for the time being of the said isles of Guernsey, Jersey, Alderney, Sark and Man, are to give the necessary directions herein as to them may respectively appertain.

C. C. Greville.

LONDON GAZETTE of JUNE 21, 1831.

At the Court at St. James's, June 20, 1831.

A CHAPTER of the Most Noble Order of the Garter having been summoned this day, the following Knights Companions, in their mantles and collars, assembled in the Entreé-room, viz.

Their Royal Highnesses the Dukes of Cumberland, Sussex, and Gloucester, the Earl of Westmorland, the Marquess Camden, the Earl of Hardwicke, the Duke of Beaufort, the Earl of Lonsdale, the Marquess Wellesley, the Duke of Montrose, the Earl Bathurst, the Duke of Northumberland, the Marquess of Hertford, the Duke of Dorset, the Duke of Devonshire, the Duke of Richmond, the Duke of Bedford, and Earl Grey, attended by the under named Officers of the Order, in their mantles, chains, and badges, viz. the Lord Bishop of Winchester, Prelate of the Order; the Honourable and Reverend the Dean of Windsor, Register of the Order; Sir George Nayler, Knt. Garter Principal King of Arms; and Sir Thomas Tyrwhitt, Knt. Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod.

At half past three o'clock the Knights Companions were called over by Garter, and, with the Officers of the Order, proceeded into the presence of the Sovereign in the Throne-room.

The Sovereign being seated on the Throne, and the Knights Companions having taken their respective tive places, the Prelate of the Order, by His Majesty's command, signified to the Chapter the Sovereign's royal will and pleasure that a lineal descendant of His Majesty King George the Second should, in pursuance of the statute in that behalf made, be elected into the said Most Noble Order.

The Knights Companions then proceeded to the election, and the suffrages having been collected by the Prelate, were by his Lordship presented to the Sovereign, who was pleased to command him to declare, and he accordingly declared, that His Serene Highness Augustus-William-Maximilian-Frederick-Lewis, Reigning Duke of Brunswick had been duly elected a Knight of the Most Noble Order of the Garter.

The Duke of Brunswick was thereupon conducted from the private apartment of the Sovereign into the Chapter-room, between their Royal Highnesses the Dukes of Cumberland and Sussex, the two senior Knights Companions, preceded by Garter (bearing the ensigns of the Order upon a crimson velvet cushion), and by Black Rod.

On entering the Chapter-room, His Serene Highness was received by the Sovereign and Knights Companions standing, and placed in a chair of state on the right hand of the Sovereign.

His Majesty was then graciously pleased to announce to the Duke of Brunswick, that His Serene Highness had been duly elected a Knight of the Most Noble Order of the Garter.

Garter, upon his knee, presenting the Garter to the Sovereign, His Majesty, assisted by their Royal Highnesses the Dukes of Cumberland and Sussex, buckled it on the left leg of His Serene Highness, the Prelate pronouncing the usual admonition.

Garter next presented, in like manner, the ribband with the George, and the Sovereign, assisted as before, put the same over the shoulder of the

Duke

Duke of Brunswick, the Prelate pronouncing the admonition.

The Sovereign, thereupon, gave the accollade to His Serene Highness, who also received the congratulations of each of the Knights Companions present.

The Chapter being ended, Garter, by command of the Sovereign, again called over the Knights Companions, and a procession was made back to the Royal Closet, in the same order as before, His Serene Highness the Duke of Brunswick walking on the right hand of His Majesty. The Knights Companions and Officers of the Order then retired from the presence of the Sovereign.

Her Majesty the Queen, their Royal Highnesses the Princesses, Her Serene Highness the Duchess of Saxe-Weimar, the Hanoverian Ministers, the Great Officers of State, the Officers of the Royal Household, and many personages of distinction, were present at this august ceremony.

Whitehall, June 16, 1831.

The King has been pleased to direct letters patent to be passed under the Great Seal, granting the dignity of a Baron of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, unto the Right Honourable Nathaniel Earl of Leitrim, and the heirs male of his body lawfully begotten, by the name, stile, and title of Baron Clements, of Kilmacrenan, in the county of Donegal.

FROM THE

SUPPLEMENT

TO THE

LONDON GAZETTE of JUNE 21, 1831.

By the KING.

A PROCLAMATION.

WILLIAM, R.

WHEREAS alarming accounts have been received that a malignant and infectious disease has spread and extended itself to parts of the coasts of the Baltic, and to other places; and whereas We feel it to be incumbent upon Us to employ such means as, under the protection and favour of Divine Providence, may be best calculated to guard Our loving subjects against the visitation of so dreadful a calamity, We have thought fit, by and with the advice of Our Privy Council, to issue this Our Royal Proclamation; and We do herein, by and with the advice of Our said Council, most strictly enjoin and command all Our loving subjects, and more especially those residing at any of the sea-port towns, or in any other places on the coasts of this kingdom, whether they may themselves be liable to quarantine or otherwise, as they tender the preservation of their own lives, and the safety and welfare of all the inhabitants of this kingdom, most scrupulously to ob-observe all the laws of quarantine which now are or may hereafter be in force, and all Orders made by Us with the advice of Our Privy Council, or by Our Privy Council under the authority thereof, and particularly most carefully to avoid any communication with any ship or vessel, or with any person or persons coming therein from the Baltic, or from any place to which by Our Royal Proclamation, by and with the advice of Our Privy Council, or by Our Orders in Council, the laws of quarantine are or may hereafter be extended, or with any boat or person therein coming from or having been on board any such ship, until such ship, vessel, or boat, with the crews and persons on board, and the goods, wares, and merchandize imported therein, shall have performed their quarantine in such places and manner as are or shall hereafter be directed in that behalf, and until they respectively shall have been duly discharged therefrom: and We do further strictly exhort, enjoin, and command all magistrates and persons in authority, and all others Our loving subjects, without loss of time, to give information to Us, through Our Principal Secretary of State for the Home Department, or to Our Privy Council, of any person that they may know or believe to have offended against any of the said laws or orders: and We do hereby warn all persons whom it may concern, that We have given the strictest orders for enforcing with the utmost rigour the most punctual observance of the laws of quarantine, and all the orders, rules, and regulations relating thereto, it being Our firm determination, upon serious consideration of the great extent of misery and calamity which a single instance of improvidently neglecting any of these regulations may bring upon our loving subjects, to cause the severest penalties which the law has provided or may provide to be inflicted upon all those who may be guilty of any offence against the same: and whereas it is also necessary to take the utmost precaution to prevent the spreading of infection, in case the said malignant disease (which God in his mercy avert) should unhappily manifest itself in any part of Our United Kingdom, notwithstanding the precautions taken to guard against the introduction thereof; We have thought fit, by and with the advice of Our said Council, to take measures for the establishment of a board of health, to consist of men able, learned, eminent, and experienced in the study and practice of medicine, together with persons most capable, from their knowledge of the ports of Our kingdom, to afford assistance in the forming of regulations respectively applicable to the local circumstances of the said ports, such board to be authorised and directed to prepare and digest the best rules and regulations for the speedy and effectual adoption of the most approved methods of guarding against the introduction and spreading of infection, and for purifying any ship, or house, or any place, in which any contagious disorder may have manifested itself, and to communicate the same to all magistrates, medical persons, and others of Our loving subjects who may be desirous and may apply to be made acquainted therewith: And We most strictly enjoin and command all magistrates and persons in authority, all medical persons, and others Our loving subjects, especially those within the maritime counties, to give immediate notice to Us, through Our Principal Secretary of State for the Home Department, or Our Privy Council, in case any person or persons should be attacked with any disease attended with new and uncommon symptoms, such as to afford ground for apprehension that such disease is of the same nature as the disorder called Cholera Morbus, prevailing in several parts of Russia, and elsewhere, in order that the most immediate and effectual measures may be taken, as well for for affording due and necessary assistance and relief to those afflicted with the same, as for preventing the contagion from spreading amongst Our loving subjects.

Given at Our Court at St. James's, the twentieth day of June one thousand eight hundred and thirty-one, and in the first year of Our reign.

GOD save the KING.

Council-Office, Whitehall, June 21, 1831.

His Majesty has been pleased to establish a Board of Health, to prepare and digest rules and regulations for the most speedy and effectual mode of guarding against the introduction and spreading of infection, and for purifying any ship or house in case any contagious disorder should unhapily manifest itself in any part of the United Kingdom, notwithstanding the precautions taken to guard against the introduction thereof, and to communicate the same to all magistrates, medical persons, and others, His Majesty's subjects, who may be desirous and may apply to be made acquainted therewith.

The said Board hold their meetings at the Royal College of Physicians, and is composed of the following persons, viz.

Sir Henry Halford, President of the Royal College of Physicians, President.
Dr. Holland, Dr. Maton, Dr. Turner, Dr. Warren, Dr. Macmichael, Fellows of the Royal College of Physicians.

FROM THE

LONDON GAZETTE of JUNE 24, 1831.

Lord Chamberlain's-Office, June 23, 1831.

NOTICE is hereby given, that the Knights of the several Orders are to wear their Collars at His Majesty's next Levee, the 29th instant, being a Collar-day.

St.

St. James's-Palace, June 21, 1831.

This day His Majesty proceeded in state from St. James's-Palace to the House of Peers, where he arrived about two o'clock; and, having alighted from the state coach, was received at the portico by the Great Officers of State and others, and proceeded to the robing-room in the customary manner.

His Majesty was there robed, and having put on the imperial crown, the procession moved into the House in the usual order.

His Majesty being seated upon the Throne, the Great Officers of State and others standing on the right and left, Sir Thomas Tyrwhitt, Knt. Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod, was sent with a message from His Majesty to the House of Commons, commanding their attendance in the House of Peers. The Commons being come thither accordingly, His Majesty was pleased to deliver the following most gracious Speech to both Houses of Parliament:

My Lords, and Gentlemen,

I HAVE availed Myself of the earliest opportunity of resorting to your advice and assistance after the dissolution of the late Parliament.

Having had recourse to that measure, for the purpose of ascertaining the sense of My people on the expediency of a reform in the representation, I have now to recommend that important question to your earliest and most attentive consideration, confident that, in any measures which you may prepare for its adjustment, you will carefully adhere to the acknowledged principles of the Constitution, by which the prerogatives of the Crown, the authority of both Houses of Parliament, and the rights and liberties of the people, are equally secured.

The

The assurances of a friendly disposition which I continue to receive from all Foreign Powers, encourage the hope that, notwithstanding the civil commotions which have disturbed some parts of Europe, and the contest now existing in Poland, the general peace will be maintained; to the preservation of this blessing My most anxious care will be constantly directed.

The discussions which have taken place on the affairs of Belgium have not yet been brought to a conclusion, but the most complete agreement continues to subsist between the Powers whose Plenipotentiaries have been engaged in the conferences of London.

The principle on which those conferences have been conducted has been that of not interfering with the right of the people of Belgium to regulate their internal affairs, and to establish their Government according to their own views of what may be most conducive to their future welfare and independence, under the sole condition, sanctioned by the practice of nations and founded on the principles of public law, that, in the exercise of that undoubted right, the security of neighbouring states should not be endangered.

A series of injuries and insults for which, notwithstanding repeated remonstrances, all reparation was withheld, compelled Me, at last, to order a squadron of My fleet to appear before Lisbon, with a peremptory demand of satisfaction. A prompt compliance with that demand prevented the necessity of further measures; but I have to regret, that I have not yet been enabled to re-establish My Diplomatic relations with the Portuguese Government.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons,

I have ordered estimates of the expences of the current year to be laid before you, and I rely with con-confidence on your loyalty and zeal to make adequate provision for the public service, as well as for the farther application of the sums granted by the last Parliament, always keeping in view the necssity of a wise and wholesome economy in every branch of the public expenditure.

My Lords, and Gentlemen,

It gives Me great satisfaction to state to you, that the large reduction of taxes which took place in the last and in the present year, with a view to the relief of the labouring classes of the community, has not been attended with a proportionate diminution of the public income. I trust that such additional means as may be required to supply a part of the deficiency occasioned by these reductions may be found, without any material abridgement of the comforts of My people.

To assist the industry, to improve the resources, and to maintain the credit of the country on sound principles, and on a safe and lasting foundation, will be at all times the objects of My solicitude, in the promotion of which I look with confidence to your zealous co-operation.

It is with deep concern that I have to announce to you the continued progress of a formidable disease, to which My attention had been early directed, in the eastern parts of Europe. Information having been more recently received that it had extended its ravages to ports in the Baltic, from whence there is a great commercial intercourse with My dominions, I have directed that all the precautions should be taken, which experience has recommended, as most effectual for guarding against the introduction of so dangerous a malady into this country.

Great distress has unhappily prevailed in some districts, and more particularly in a part of the western counties of Ireland, to relieve which, in the most pressing cases, I have not hesitated to authorise the application of such means as were immediately available for that purpose. But assistance of this nature is necessarily limited in its amount, and can only be temporary in its effect. The possibility, therefore, of introducing any measures which, by assisting the improvement of the natural resources of the country, may tend to prevent the recurrence of such evils, must be a subject of the most anxious interest to Me, and to you of the most grave and cautious consideration.

Local disturbances, unconnected with any political causes, have taken place, both in this part of the United Kingdom and in Ireland. In the county of Clare, and in the adjoining parts of Roscommon and Galway, a system of violence and outrage had for some time been carried on to an alarming extent, for the repression of which the constitutional authority of the law has been vigorously and successfully exerted. By these means the necessity of enacting new laws, to strengthen the Executive Government with further powers, will, I trust, be prevented; to avert such a necessity has been, and ever will be, My most earnest desire; but if it should unfortunately arise, I do not doubt your firm resolution to maintain the peace and order of society, by the adoption of such measures as may be required for their more effectual protection.

Downing-Street, June 24, 1831.

His Majesty has been pleased to establish a Commission, for the purpose of collecting and communicating to persons desirous to emigrate to any of the British possessions abroad, in quest of employment, such information as may be useful to the parties so circumstanced; and generally to render to such persons such counsel, advice, and aid as can be lawfully afforded to them, in effecting such emigrations.

The Commissioners will hold their meetings at the Colonial-Office, in Downing-street, and the following are the persons appointed:

His Grace the Duke of Richmond.
Viscount Howick.
Francis Thornhill Baring, Esq.
Henry Ellis, Esq. and Robert William Hay, Esq.
Frederick T. Elliot, Esq. to act as Secretary to the said Commissioners.

Whitehall, June 23, 1831.

The King has been pleased to grant unto Sir Robert Hugh Kennedy, Knt. Commissary-General of the Forces, His Majesty's royal licence and authority that he may accept and wear the insignia of a Knight of the royal and distinguished Spanish Order of Charles the Third, which His Majesty Ferdinand the Seventh, King of Spain, was graciously pleased to confer upon him, in testimony of his royal approbation of his distinguished conduct during the Peninsular war:

And also to command, that the said royal concession and declaration be registered in His Majesty's College of Arms.

LONDON GAZETTE of JULY 1, 1831.

St. James's-Palace, June 29, 1831.

THIS day His Grace the Archbishop of Canterbury, with a Deputation from the Clergy of the Province of Canterbury, waited upon His Majesty to present to His Majesty the following Address, which His Majesty was graciously pleased to receive on the Throne:

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE, your Majesty's dutiful subjects, the Archbishop, Bishops, and Clergy of the Province of Canterbury, in Convocation assembled, most humbly entreat your Majesty to accept our assurances of sincere affection and loyalty.

It has been the wisdom of our Sovereigns, and of those more particularly of your Majesty's illustrious House, to secure to their subjects the inestimable blessings of sound doctrine, and the regular ministrations of religion, by affording their special protection and countenance to the Established Church. In this faithful attention to the charge, committed to Christian Kings by Divine Providence, your Majesty has adopted the principles of your ancestors, and acted on their example; a consideration, which, in this season of danger and difficulty, tends much to our our encouragement and comfort. Yet, Sir, we must not conceal that we are not altogether free from anxiety. Since last we had the honour of addressing your Majesty, the tranquillity of the country has been partially disturbed by a spirit of violence, which prevailed for a time over the moral restraints essential to the well being of society, and which, though now providentially quieted, may again be called into action. Among the means of averting such a calamity, your Majesty will unquestionably look to the professional exertions of the Clergy: we trust, Sir, that, taken as a body, with reasonable allowance for human infirmity, we cannot be justly accused of inattention to our sacred duties; and we humbly venture to promise, that, with the blessing of God on our resolutions, no supineness or negligence on our part, no want of moderation, or zeal, or disinterestedness, shall obstruct the success of our pastoral cares and labours.

But we humbly represent to your Majesty, that the exertions of the Ministers of the Church, however assiduous or able, must fail in too many instances of their full effect, while the truths of Divine Revelation are publicly held up to derision by professed teachers of impiety, and writings replete with sedition and blasphemy, are extensively circulated in open defiance of the law. We do not object to the fullest discussion of religious subjects, or the freest animadversion on the Church or its Ministers, where either may seem in fault: even, when the intention is hostile, the result may be the elucidation of truth, or the removal of blemishes or defects. But, Sir, no excuse can be offered for a course of proceeding, which poisons the morals of the young, and emboldens the ignorant to scoff at their Creator, and reject the instruction which would render them happy in themselves and estimable and useful in society.

At

At the same time we beg leave to assure your Majesty, that in every disadvantage we may have to encounter, we shall find an additional incitement, to the diligent use of the means, which the mercy of God has placed in our hands, for the benefit of our fellow creatures. To the mischievous delusions, of infidelity and immorality on the one hand, and enthusiasm and superstition on the other, we shall persevere in opposing the doctrines and precepts of the Gospel. And while, in humble reliance on aid from above, we inculcate the necessity of personal holiness, and cheerful obedience to the laws, we shall never cease to pray, that your Majesty may long continue to reign, beloved at home, and respected abroad, in peace, prosperity, and honour.

To which Address His Majesty was pleased to return the following most gracious Answer:

" My Lords and the rest of the Clergy,

" I thank you for your loyal and dutiful Address.

" Deeply sensible of the necessity of ensuring to my subjects the blessings of a pure religion, my constant care will be directed to the support of the Established Church in all its just rights and privileges.

" I rely with confidence on the moderation, zeal, and disinterestedness of its Ministers in the performance of the important duties assigned to them; and I receive with the highest satisfaction your assurances that, not objecting to the utmost freedom in the discussion of religious subjects, which can be fairly required for the elucidation of truth, you will persevere in opposing the doctrines and precepts of the Gospel to the delusions of immorality and infidelity on the one hand, and to enthusiasm and superstition on the other.

" A due enforcement of the powers of the law shall shall not be wanting on my part, whenever it may be required for the protection of the true interests of religion; and to your professional exertions, directed by a just sense of duty, and by the meek spirit of Christian charity, I trust, under the blessing of Divine Providence, for the defeat of all attempts which may be made to pervert the feelings of a moral and religious people, or to shake their belief in those holy truths on which their present and their future happiness equally depend."

St. James's-Palace, June 29, 1831.

By the KING.

A PROCLAMATION,

Declaring His Majesty's further Pleasure touching His Royal Coronation and the Solemnity thereof.

WILLIAM, R.

WHEREAS having resolved, by the favour and blessing of Almighty God, to celebrate the solemnity of Our Royal Coronation, and of the Coronation of Our dearly beloved Consort the Queen, upon the eighth day of September next, at Our Palace, at Westminster; and having accordingly signified Our Royal pleasure concerning the same, by Our Proclamation, dated the thirteenth day of July instant, whereby, amongst other things, We thought fit, out of Our princely care for the preservation of the lawful rights and inheritances of Our loving subjects whom it might concern, to declare, that, by Our Commission under the Great Seal of Great Britain, We had appointed and authorised Our most dearly-beloved Brothers and Councillors Ernest Augustus Duke of Cumberland, Augustus

Frederick Duke of Sussex, Adolphus Frederick Duke of Cambridge, Our most dear Cousins and Councillors William Frederick Duke of Gloucester, and Prince Leopold of Saxe Coburg, and divers Lords and others of Our Privy Council, therein named, or any five or more of them, to receive, hear, and determine the petitions and claims which should be to them exhibited by any of Our loving subjects in this behalf; and that We should appoint Our said Commissioners for that purpose to sit in the Painted Chamber of Our Palace, at Westminster, upon Monday the twenty-fifth day of July instant, at eleven of the clock in the morning of the same day, and from time to time to adjourn as to them should seem meet, for the execution of Our said Commission; and whereby We did also signify unto all and every Our loving subjects whom it might concern, that Our will and pleasure was, and We did thereby strictly charge and command all persons, of what rank or quality soever they might be, who, either upon our letters to them directed, or by reason of their offices or tenures, or otherwise, were to do any service at the said day or time of our Coronation, that they would duly give their attendance accordingly, in all respects furnished and appointed as to so great a solemnity appertaineth, and answerable to the dignities and places which every one of them respectively held and enjoyed, and of that they, or any of them, were not to fail as they would answer the contrary at their perils, unless upon special reasons by Ourself under Our hand to be allowed, We should dispense with any of their services or attendances:

And whereas by a report made unto Us by a Committee of the Lords of Our Most Honourable Privy Council, to whom We thought fit to refer the arrangement of preparations necessary upon the occasion of the aforesaid Coronation, the said Committee

mittee of Our said Privy Council have in obedience to Our commands, whereby they were specially directed to make the said arrangements as much abridged and as economical as might be compatable with a strict regard to the solemnity and importance of the occasion, and a due compliance with the provisions of existing Statutes in that behalf, reported to Us their opinion, that it may be proper for Us to omit that part of the ceremonial which usually takes place in Westminster-Hall, and that part thereof which consists of the procession, and that We should give directions for the celebration of that part only (as it might be hereafter curtailed), which is solemnized in Westminster-Abbey ; and the said Committee of Our Privy Council have further submitted to Us, that in dispensing with the ceremonies which have heretofore taken place in Westminster-Hall, it may be proper that We should dispense with the services and attendance of those who, by ancient customs and usages, as also in regard of divers tenures of sundry manors, lands, and other hereditaments, do claim and are bound to do and perform divers several services at the time of Our said Coronation, which services would have been performed in Westminster-Hall, or in the procession, and at the same time that We would be graciously pleased to declare, that such dispensation should in no wise interfere with the rights and privileges they may claim as touching the performances of the said services at any future Coronation of the Kings or Queens of this realm : and whereas the said Committee of Our said Privy Council have further represented unto Us, that it may be advisable for Us to issue Our Royal Proclamation to that effect, We, therefore, in compliance with the advice so dutifully tendered to Us by Our Privy Council, and having at heart the ease of Our loving subjects, do, by this Our Royal Proclamation, signify and declare that it is Our Royal will and pleasure, that such part only of the solemnity and ceremony of the Royal Coronation of Ourself and Our dearly beloved Consort the Queen, as is usually upon the Coronation of the Kings and Queens of this realm, solemnized in Westminster-Abbey, shall take place, and We do further, by this Our Royal Proclamation, signify and declare, that We do for Ourself, and for Our dearly beloved Consort the Queen, dispense upon the occasion of this Our Coronation, with the procession, and with the services and attendance of all persons who, by ancient custom and usage, or in regard of their tenures of any manors, lands, or other hereditaments, do claim, and are bound to do and perform, any services, at the time of the Coronation, which, according to ancient custom or usage, are to be performed in Westminster-Hall, or in the procession, such dispensation, nevertheless, to be altogether without prejudice to the rights and prerogatives of our Successors, Kings and Queens of this Realm, to demand and require the performance of the said several services at any future Coronation of the Kings or Queens of this Realm: and we do hereby further graciously declare, that the same shall not interfere with the rights and privileges of any of our loving subjects, to claim the performances of such several services, or any of them, at any future Coronation: and We do hereby, in further compliance with the advice of the aforesaid Committee of our Privy Council, declare, and make known, to all such of Our loving subjects as it may concern, that it seems good to Us, that the Committee of Claims shall, upon the occasion of this our Coronation, but without prejudice for the future to the rights and claims of any of our loving subjects, exclude from their consideration such claims as may be submitted to them, in respect of rights or services connected with the parts of the ceremonial heretofore performed in West-

Westminster-Hall, and with the procession: and, We are further pleased, by the advice aforesaid, to direct that the Court of Claims do meet in the Council Chamber, at White Hall, instead of in the Painted Chamber, at Westminster, as had been directed by Our former Proclamation.

At the Court at St. James's, the 13th day of July 1831,

PRESENT,

The KING's Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

WHEREAS by an Act, passed in the sixth year of His late Majesty's reign, intituled "An "Act to regulate the trade of the British pos- "sessions abroad," it is, amongst other things, enacted, that certain ports, therein particularly mentioned, in the island of Jamaica, and in the provinces of Nova Scotia, Canada, and New Brunswick, and in the island of Barbadoes, shall be free warehousing ports for the purposes of the said Act; and it is further enacted, that it shall be lawful for for His Majesty in Council, from time to time, to appoint any port in His Majesty's possessions in America, to be a free warehousing port for the purposes of the said Act; and that every such port, so appointed by His Majesty, shall be a free warehousing port under the said Act, as if appointed by the same, in as full and ample a manner in all respects as any of the ports thereinbefore mentioned are free warehousing ports appointed by the said Act:

And whereas His Majesty doth deem it expedient, that the port of Kingstown, in the island of Saint Vincent, should be appointed a free warehousing port for the purposes of the said Act, His Majesty doth therefore, by and with the advice of His Privy Council, and in pursuance and exercise of the powers in him vested, in and by the said Act of Parliament, order and appoint, that the said port of Kingstown, in the island of Saint Vincent, shall be a free warehousing port for the purposes of the said Act:

The KING's Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

WHEREAS by an Act, passed in the third year of His late Majesty King George the Fourth, intituled "An Act for further continuing, altering, "and amending several Acts for the better regula- "tion of lastage and ballastage in the River Thames, "and for enabling the Corporation of Trinity-house "of Deptford Strond to reduce, alter, modify, re- "linquish, or abolish dues payable to the said Cor- "poration, and for other purposes connected there- "with," after reciting that, under the authority and by virtue of the several Acts of Parliament, and grants therein recited, as well as of other Acts of Parliament, and of divers charters, grants, and letters patent of Kings and Queens of this realm, and also by prescriptive right, the Master, Wardens, and Assistants for the time being of Trinity-house of Deptford Strond aforesaid, had collected, taken, levied, and received from, or in respect of, ships and vessels requiring ballast, the several rates and prices specified in the Act of the forty-fifth year of the reign of His said late Majesty King George the Third, therein mentioned, and certain dues or duties, rates or tolls, of various denominations, from, or in res-respect of, all British ships or vessels, and from, or in respect of, all foreign ships and vessels, entering or departing from the ports, harbours, or roadsteads of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland; and that the Master, Wardens, and Assistants of the Trinity-house of Deptford Strond aforesaid had not, by the terms of the said several Acts of Parliament, charters, grants, and letters patent, or any of them, any power to reduce, modify, alter, relinquish, or abolish any of the rates, prices, dues, duties, and tolls, imposed or granted, collected, taken, levied, and received as aforesaid: and that it was expedient that the said Master, Wardens, and Assistants should be empowered (under the regulations thereinafter contained) to reduce, alter, modify, relinquish, or abolish, and at any time or times thereafter to revive and re-establish, any of the rates, prices, dues, duties, and tolls aforesaid, or any part or parts thereof, from time to time, as to them the said Master, Wardens, and Assistants should seem meet, just, and reasonable; it is thereby enacted, that the Master, Wardens, and Assistants for the time being of the Corporation of Trinity-house of Deptford Strond aforesaid shall be, and they are thereby authorised and empowered, from time to time, and at any time or times thereafter, upon the requisition or with the consent of His said late Majesty, His heirs and successors, in His or their Most Honourable Privy Council, to reduce, relinquish, abolish, alter, or modify all or any or either of the rates, prices, dues, duties, or tolls imposed or granted by the said several grants, charters, or Acts of Parliament, or any of them, or collected, taken, levied, and received under the authority thereof respectively, or by ancient usage, custom, or prescription, or any part or parts thereof, so far as may be consistent with the charitable and other uses, purposes, and intents for which the said Corporation has been established and maintained;

and that it shall also be lawful for the Master, Wardens, and Assistants for the time being of the said Corporation of Trinity-house of Deptford Strond, at any time or times after the passing thereof, to revive and re-establish any rates, prices, dues, duties, or tolls which may have been relinquished or abolished, or to increase or otherwise alter or modify any rates, prices, dues, duties, or tolls which may have been reduced, altered, or modified under the authority of the said Act, and so from time to time to relinquish or abolish and revive or re-establish, and reduce or increase, alter or modify, all or any of such rates, prices, dues, duties, or tolls as occasion may require; so as nevertheless that no such rates, prices, dues, duties, or tolls shall at any time be increased beyond the amount which might be collected, taken, levied, or received by the said Corporation in respect thereof before the passing of the said Act: and it is thereby provided, that no such relinquishment, abolition, reduction, alteration, or modification, or subsequent revival, re-establishment, increase, alteration, or modification of any such rates, prices, dues, duties, or tolls, or any or either of them, or any part or parts thereof, shall at any time be deemed valid or take effect until the same shall have been submitted by the said Master, Wardens, and Assistants to and shall have been assented to and confirmed by His said late Majesty, His heirs, or successors in His or their Most Honourable Privy Council, and such assent and confirmation shall have been signified in writing unto the said Master, Wardens, and Assistants; and that it shall be lawful for the said Master, Wardens, and Assistants to fix and determine the period (so that the same do not exceed three calendar months from the receipt by them of such assent or confirmation as aforesaid), from and after which all and every the rates, prices, dues, duties, or tolls so relinquished or abolished shall be discontinued and no longer collected, taken, levied, or received, or from and after which all and every the rates, prices, dues, duties, or tolls so received or re-established, reduced, increased, altered, or modified respectively as aforesaid, shall and may be collected, received, levied, or taken: and whereas the said Master, Wardens, and Assistants have submitted to His Majesty in His Privy Council, the propriety of modifying and reducing the duties payable for the Flatholm Light in the Bristol Channel, in manner following, that is to say:

or

	Present Toll.	Proposed Toll.
British over sea traders - -	1d. per ton.	$\frac{3}{4}$d. per ton.
Coasters and Irish traders - -	$\frac{1}{2}$d. per ton.	$\frac{1}{4}$d. per ton.
Coasters between Land's-end and St. David's Head	1s. per vessel.	1s. per vessel.
Foreign vessels privileged as British	1d. per ton.	$\frac{3}{4}$d. per ton.
Foreign vessels not so privileged -	2d. per ton.	1$\frac{1}{2}$d. per ton.

And whereas His Majesty, with the advice of His Privy Council, hath assented to the said proposal. His Majesty doth, therefore, with the advice of His Privy Council, and in pursuance and exercise of the powers in Him vested by the said Act of Parliament, confirm the proposed tolls or duties, and the same are hereby confirmed accordingly:

And the Right Honourable the Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury, are to give the necessary directions herein accordingly.

FROM THE

LONDON GAZETTE of AUGUST 16, 1831.

At the Court at St. James's, the 10th day of August 1831,

PRESENT,

The KING's Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

WHEREAS by an Act, passed in the sixth year of His late Majesty's reign, intituled "An Act "to regulate the trade of the British possessions "abroad," it is, amongst other things, enacted, that no goods shall be imported into, nor shall any goods, except the produce of the fisheries in British ships, be exported from any of the British possessions in America by sea, or from or to any place other than the United Kingdom, except into or from the several ports in such possessions called free ports, enumerated or described in the table in the said Act of Parliament contained:

And

And it is thereby provided, that if His Majesty shall deem it expedient to extend the provisions of the said Act to any port or place not enumerated in the said table, it shall be lawful for His Majesty, by Order in Council, to extend the provisions of the said Act to such port or ports, and it is enacted, that from and after the day mentioned in such Order in Council, all the privileges and advantages of the said Act, and all the provisions, penalties, and forfeitures therein contained, shall extend, and be deemed and construed to extend, to any such port or ports respectively, as fully as if the same had been inserted and enumerated in the said table at the time of passing the said Act:

And whereas His Majesty doth deem it expedient to extend the provisions of the said Act to the ports of Black River, Rio Bueno, and Morant, in the island of Jamaica; His Majesty doth therefore, in pursuance and exercise of the powers vested in him by the said Act of Parliament, and with the advice of His Privy Council, order, and it is hereby ordered, that, from and after the date of this Order, the provisions of the said Act of Parliament respecting free ports shall be, and the same are hereby, extended to the said ports of Black River, Rio Bueno, and Morant, in the island of Jamaica:

And the Right Honourable the Lord Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury, and the Right Honourable Viscount Goderich, one of His Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, are to give the necessary directions herein as to them may respectively appertain. C. C. Greville.

CORONATION.

Earl Marshal's-Office, August 23, 1831.

NOTICE is hereby given to all Peers, Dowager Peeresses, and Peeresses, that as it is actually necessary to know the number of persons for whom accommodation is required, no tickets will be issued to any Peer, Dowager Peeress, or Peeress, who shall not have signified to me, on or before the 30th day of August instant, their intention of attending the solemnity of the Coronation of their Majesties.

NORFOLK, E. M.

Office of the Lord Chamberlain to the Queen, Queen's-House, St. James's, August 23, 1831.

Notice is hereby given, that the Queen will hold a Drawing-room at St. James's-Palace, on Monday, September the 12th. The cards of Ladies for presentation to Her Majesty, must be sent in to the Office of the Lord Chamberlain to the Queen, before two o'clock on Friday the 9th.

At the Court at Windsor-Castle, August 20, 1831.

A Chapter of the Most Noble Order of the Garter having been summoned this day, the following Knights Companions, in their mantles and collars, assembled at the Castle, viz. His Royal Highness the Duke of Cumberland, His Royal Highness the Duke of Sussex, His Royal Highness the Duke of Gloucester, the Earl of Westmorland, the Marquess Camden, the Duke of Beaufort, the Marquess Wellesley, the Duke of Wellington, the Marquess of Hertford, the Duke of Devonshire, the Duke of Richmond, and the Earl Grey, attended by the under-mentioned Officers of the Order, in their mantles, chains, and badges, viz. the Lord Bishop of Winchester, Prelate of the Order; the Honourable and Reverend the Dean of Windsor, Register of the Order; Sir George Nayler, Knt. Garter Principal King of Arms; and Sir Thomas Tyrwhitt, Knt. Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod.

At half past six o'clock the Knights Companions were called over by Garter, and, with the Officers of the Order, proceeded into the presence of the Sovereign, in the Queen's Drawing-room.

The Sovereign being seated on the Throne, and the Knights Companions having taken their respective places, the Prelate of the Order, by command of His Majesty, read a new statute, declaring the Sovereign's royal will and pleasure that this Most Noble Order should in future consist of the Sovereign and twenty-five Knights Companions, together with such lineal descendants of His Majesty King George the First as shall have been elected, and may hereafter be elected into the same.

Then, by His Majesty's command, His Serene Highness the Duke of Saxe-Meiningen, (Brother of Her Most Excellent Majesty the Queen) who, by a statute, bearing date the 17th day of July 1830, had been been declared elected into this Most Noble Order, was conducted from the private apartment of His Majesty into the Chapter-room, between their Royal Highnesses the Dukes of Cumberland and Sussex, the two Senior Knights Companions, preceded by Garter (bearing the ensigns of the Order upon a crimson velvet cushion), and by Black Rod.

Upon entering the Chapter-room, His Serene Highness was received by the Sovereign, and the Knights Companions standing, and was placed in a chair of state on the right hand of the Sovereign.

Garter thereupon, upon his knee, presenting the Garter to the Sovereign, His Majesty, assisted by their Royal Highnesses the Dukes of Cumberland and Sussex, buckled it on the left leg of His Serene Highness, the Prelate pronouncing the usual admonition.

Garter, in like manner, next presented the ribband with the George, and the Sovereign, assisted as before, put the same over the shoulder of the Duke of Saxe-Meiningen, the Prelate pronouncing the usual admonition.

The Sovereign, thereupon, gave the accollade to His Serene Highness, who also received the congratulations of each of the Knights Companions present.

The Chapter being ended, the Knights Companions were again called over by Garter, and, with the Officers of the Order, withdrew from the presence of the Sovereign, with the usual reverences.

Her Majesty the Queen, their Royal Highnesses the Princesses, their Royal Highnesses the Duchesses of Gloucester, Cumberland, and Cambridge, their Royal Highnesses Prince George of Cumberland and Prince George of Cambridge, Her Serene Highness the Duchess of Saxe-Weimar, the Great Officers of State, the Officers of the Royal Household, and many persons of distinction, were present at this august ceremony.

In the evening a dinner of state was given by the Sovereign, in St. George's-hall, at which the above-named Royal, noble, and distinguished personages were present, with the Officers of the Order.

During the banquet the Sovereign was pleased to drink to the health of His illustrious Visitor, His Serene Highness Bernard, Reigning Duke of Saxe-Meiningen, Knight of the Most Noble Order of the Garter; and afterwards to that of Her Serene Highness the Duchess of Saxe-Meiningen.

Their Majesties shortly after proceeded to the Drawing-room, where they were received by a party of Nobility and Gentry specially invited on this occasion.

At the Court at Windsor-Castle, August 20, 1831.

The King, as Sovereign of the Most Noble Order of the Garter, hath been graciously pleased, by letters patent under His royal sign manual and the great seal of the Order, bearing date this day, to dispense with all the statutes and regulations usually observed in regard to installation, and to grant unto His Serene Highness Bernard, Reigning Duke of Saxe-Meiningen (Brother of Her Most Excellent Majesty the Queen), Knight of the said Most Noble Order, and duly invested with the ensigns thereof, full power and authority to exercise all rights and privileges belonging to a Knight Companion of the Most Noble Order of the Garter, in as full and ample a manner as if His Serene Highness had been formally installed, any decree, rule, or usage to the contrary notwithstanding.

FROM THE

SUPPLEMENT

TO THE

LONDON GAZETTE of SEPTEMBER 2, 1831.

Whitehall, September 2, 1831.

IN pursuance of an Order of His Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council, the following instructions have been framed, for securing the commodious access and return of carriages conveying persons to and from Westminster-Abbey, on the occasion of their Majesties' Coronation, on the 8th September.

In conformity with these instructions the necessary directions have been given to all His Majesty's officers and servants concerned in carrying them into execution.

The doors of the Abbey will be opened at four o'clock in the morning.

At the same hour all the gates of Hyde-park will be opened for carriages.

The gates of St. James's-park (except Storey's-gate) will be closed against all carriages, but those belonging to their Majesties and the Royal Family, until after the return of their Majesties to St. James's-Palace. MELBOURNE.

Their

Their Majesties will proceed in state to Westminster-Abbey from St. James's-Palace, along Pall-mall, Cockspur-street, Charing-cross, Whitehall, Parliament-street, New Palace-yard, to the west entrance of Westminster-Abbey.

Their Majesties will arrive at the Abbey at eleven o'clock.

This line of street will be kept exclusively for the free passage of their Majesties, and of the several branches of the Royal Family, from the hour of half past eight until after their Majesties' return to St. James's.

Bars will be placed as follows:

Surrey side of Westminster-bridge.
St. James's-street.
South side of St. James's-square.
Waterloo-place.
Haymarket, below Suffolk-place.
Suffolk-place, west end.
Strand.
Scotland-yard-archway.
Whitehall-place.
Great George-street.
South side of the space in front of the Union Club.
Whitcombe-street.
Great Chapel-street, Westminster.
Delahay-street, near Storey's-gate.

ROUTE, No. 1.

Persons who have tickets for the western entrance, will pass down Grosvenor-place, keeping along the western side (taking care to avoid all interference with the Royal carriages coming up the eastern side from the Royal Mews), along Lower Grosvenor-place, Arabella-row, Ward's-row, down James-street, York-street, Broadway, Tothill-street, and will set down at the west entrance of the Abbey; then turn to the left, along Princes-street, through Storey's-gate, into the park, and remain till called for; and will take up in the same manner as they set down.—To be in their places at nine o'clock; and no carriage will be allowed to approach the western entrance after that hour.

ROUTE, No. 2.

Persons who have tickets to enter at Poets' Corner will proceed along Knightsbridge, and then through Wilton-street, the north-east side of Wilton-crescent, the east side of Belgrave-square, down Belgrave-street, upper and lower, into Belgrave-place, round Shaftesbury-terrace, into the Vauxhall-road; turn to the left by the east side of Vincent-square, into Marsham-street, Bowling-street, College-street, Abingdon-street, and set down at Poets' Corner; turn to the right, and return by Abingdon-street, Millbank-road, along the Vauxhall-road, to the east side of Vincent-square, and take up as they set down. This entrance to be closed at nine o'clock, and to be opened for the admission of the Members of the House of Commons only after that hour; and after they are admitted to be again closed until the the Ceremony is over.

ROUTE, No. 3.

Persons who have tickets for the north entrance will fall into line at the top of the Haymarket, along Cockspur-street, Whitehall, King-street, to the north door of the Abbey, setting down with the horses heads towards Westminster-bridge; draw off by Bridge-street and Westminster-bridge; and wait in the Kent-road, near the Female Asylum, until after the King shall have returned; then take up in the contrary way to that in which they set down. This route will be closed at half-past eight o'clock.

ROUTE,

ROUTE, No. 4.

For the Members of the House of Commons exclusively.

To pass down the Eastern side of the Haymarket, so as not to interfere with the general line of carriages, to the bar at Suffolk-place, through which their carriages will be admitted, on producing the Speaker's Ticket; and keep on the left side of the street, setting down at the great door of Westminster-hall, and draw off over Westminster-bridge to the Asylum.

[The Knights of the several Orders wore their respective Collars.]

The Prebendaries, entering the Choir, aseended the Theatre, and passed over it to their station on the south side of the Altar, beyond the King's Chair.

The Vice-Chamberlain, Comptroller, and Treasurer of His Majesty's Household, passed to the seats provided for them.

The Dean of Westminster, the Great Offieers, and the Lord Archbishop of Canterbury, aseended the Theatre, and stood near the great south-east pillar thereof.

The Princesses and the Attendants of their Royal Highnesses were eonducted by the Offieers of Arms to their box on the south-side of the area.

The QUEEN, preceded by Her Majesty's Viee-Chamberlain, Lord Chamberlain, and the Noblemen bearing Her Regalia, and attended as before mentioned, aseended the Theatre and passed, on the north-side of Her Throne, to the Chair of State provided for Her Majesty on the east-side of the Theatre, below Her Throne; and stood by the said Chair until His Majesty's arrival.

The Serjeants at Arms went to their plaees, near the Theatre.

The Gentlemen-Pensioners, who guarded their Majesties, remained at the foot of the steps aseending the Theatre: the Yeomen of the Guard stood on the outside of the entrance to the Choir.

The PRINCES OF THE BLOOD ROYAL were conducted to their seats, as Peers, by the Officers of Arms.

The High Constables of Seotland and Ireland were also conducted to their plaees, as Peers.

The King, aseending the Theatre, passed, on the south side of His Throne, to His Chair of State on the east side of the Theatre, opposite to the Altar; and their Majesties, after their private devotions, took their respeetive seats; the Bishops, their Supporters, standing on each side; the Noblemen bearing the four Swords on His Majesty's right hand; the Deputy

Upon the conclusion of the Anthem, His Majesty, attended by the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Lord Chancellor, the Deputy Lord Great Chamberlain, the Lord High Constable, and the Earl Marshal, and preceded by Garter, repaired to the east side of the Theatre, where the Archbishop made the Recognition, and repeated the same at the south, west, and north sides of the Theatre, His Majesty turning towards the people on the side at which the Recognition was made: the people replied to each demand with loud and repeated acclamations of "GOD SAVE KING WILLIAM THE FOURTH;" and, at the last Recognition, the trumpets sounded and the drums cat.

His Majesty then took His seat; and the Bible, the Chalice, and the Patina were carried to and placed upon the Altar by the Bishops who had borne them.

Two Officers of the Wardrobe then spread a rich Cloth of Gold, and laid two cushions on the same, for their Majesties to kneel on, at the steps of the Altar.

The Archbishop of Canterbury put on his cope; and and the Bishops who were to read the Litany were also vested in their copes.

The King, attended by His Supporters, and the Dean of Westminster, the Great Officers, the Noblemen bearing the Regalia and the four Swords, going before His Majesty, passed to the Altar. Then the Queen, supported and preceded by the Noblemen, bearing Her Majesty's Regalia as before, went also to the Altar. His Majesty, uncovered and kneeling upon the Cushion, made His first Offering of a Pall or Altar-Cloth of Gold, which was delivered by an Officer of the Wardrobe to the Lord Chamberlain, by his Grace to the Deputy Lord Great Chamberlain, and by him to the King, who delivered it to the Archbishop of Canterbury, by whom it was placed on the Altar. The Treasurer of the Household then delivered an Ingot of Gold, of one pound weight, being the second Offering, to the Deputy Lord Great Chamberlain, who having presented the same to the King, His Majesty delivered it to the Archbishop, by whom it was put into the Oblation-basin.

The Queen, kneeling on the left hand of His Majesty, made Her Offering, namely, a Pall of Gold, with the like ceremony. Their Majesties continued to kneel; and the Prayer "O God, who dwellest in the high and holy place," was said by the Archbishop. At the conclusion of the Prayer Their Majesties rose. The King was conducted to the Chair of State on the south side of the Area; and Her Majesty to the Chair on the left hand of the King. The Regalia, except the Swords, were delivered, by the several Noblemen who bore the same, to the Archbishop, and by his Grace to the Dean of Westminster, who laid them on the Altar; the Great Officers, and the Noblemen who had borne the Regalia, going to their respective places.

The Litany was then read by the Bishops of Lichfield and Coventry, and Lincoln, vested in copes, and kneeling at a Faldstool, covered with blue velvet, and placed above the steps of the Theatre, in the middle of the east side thereof. Then was read the beginning of the Communion Service, the Bishop of Llandaff reading the Epistle, and the Bishop of Bristol the Gospel. The Sermon was preached by the Bishop of London. During the Sermon His Majesty wore His Cap of State of crimson velvet, turned up with ermine, and sat in His Chair on the south side of the Area, opposite the Pulpit; His Supporters, the Deputy Great Chamberlain, and the Noblemen carrying the Swords, standing by Him. Her Majesty sat in Her Chair on the left hand of His Majesty, supported and attended as before. The Archbishop of Canterbury took his seat in a purple velvet Chair, on the north side of the Altar, Garter standing near him. The Dean took his seat on the south side of the Altar. The Bishops sat on their benches along the north-side of the Area. The Prebendaries of Westminster stood on the south side of the Area, east of the King's Chair, and near the Altar.

The Sermon being concluded, the Archbishop of Canterbury, advancing to the King, administered the CORONATION OATH. The King arose from His Chair of State, and, attended by His Supporters and the Deputy Lord-Great Chamberlain, went uncovered to the Altar, where, kneeling upon the cushion laid on the steps, and placing his hand on the Holy Gospels, His Majesty took the Oath, and added thereto His Royal Sign Manual, the Lord Chamberlain of the Household holding a silver standish for that purpose, delivered to him by an Officer of the Jewel-Office.

The King returned to His Chair, when the following Hymn was sung, the Archbishop reading the first line, "Come, Holy Ghost, our Souls inspire," &c.

Upon the conclusion of the Hymn, the Archbishop read the Prayer preparatory to the Anointing, "O Lord, Holy Father, who by anointing, with Oil, didst of old make and consecrate Kings, Priests, and Prophets," phets," &c. At the conclusion of this Prayer, the Choirs sang the following Anthem, "Zadock the Priest," &c. During this Anthem, The King was disrobed of His Crimson Robes by the Deputy Lord-Great-Chamberlain, who delivered them to the Master of the Robes; and His Majesty took off His Cap of State, the Deputy Lord Great Chamberlain delivering the same to the Lord Chamberlain; and the Robes and Cap were immediately carried into St. Edward's Chapel, the Robes by the Groom of the Robes, the Cap by the Officer of the Jewel-Office. His Majesty then took His seat in King Edward's Chair, covered with Cloth of Gold, and placed in front of the Altar, when four Knights of the Garter, viz. the Dukes of Leeds and Dorset, the Marquess Camden and the Marquess of Exeter, summoned by Garter, held over the King's head a rich Pall or Cloth of Gold, delivered to them by the Lord Chamberlain, who had received the same from an Officer of the Wardrobe; and the Dean of Westminster stood near holding the Ampulla, containing the consecrated oil, and pouring some into the Anointing Spoon, the Archbishop anointed His Majesty on the head and hands, in the form of a cross, pronouncing the words, "Be Thou anointed," &c.

The King then kneeling, the Archbishop, standing on the north side of the Altar, pronounced the Benediction. The Knights of the Garter returned the Pall to the Lord Chamberlain (which was by him re-delivered to the Officer of the Wardrobe), and repaired to their Seats.

After this, the Dean took the Spurs from the Altar, and delivered them to the Deputy Lord Great Chamberlain, who, kneeling down, touched His Majesty's Heels therewith, and returned them to the Dean, by whom they were laid upon the Altar.

Earl Grey then delivered the Sword of State to the Lord Chamberlain, and, in lieu thereof, received from his Grace another Sword in a Scabbard of Purple Vel-

Velvet (presented to his Grace by an Officer of the Jewel-Office), which his Lordship delivered to the Archbishop, who laid it on the Altar, and said the Prayer, "Hear Our Prayers, O Lord, we beseech Thee, and so direct and support thy Servant King WILLIAM," &c.

The Archbishop then took the Sword from off the Altar, and, assisted by other Bishops, delivered it into the King's right hand, saying, "Receive this kingly Sword," &c. and "With this Sword do Justice," &c.

The King, rising, went to the Altar, where His Majesty offered the Sword in the Scabbard (delivering it to the Archbishop), and then retired to His Chair: the Sword was then redeemed by Earl Grey, who carried it during the remainder of the Solemnity, having first drawn it out of the Scabbard, and delivered the latter to an Officer of the Wardrobe.

The King then standing, His Majesty was invested by the Dean with the Imperial Mantle, or Dalmatic Robe, of Cloth of Gold, delivered to Him by the Officers of the Wardrobe; the Deputy Lord Great Chamberlain fastening the Clasps.

The King then sitting down, the Archbishop, having received the Orb from the Dean, delivered it into the King's right hand, saying "Receive this Imperial Robe and Orb," &c.

His Majesty then returned the Orb to the Dean, who laid it upon the Altar.

The Lord Chamberlain of His Majesty's Household then, receiving from the Officer of the Jewel-Office the Ruby Ring, delivered the same to the Archbishop, who put it on the fourth finger of the King's right hand, saying "Receive this Ring," &c.

The Dean thereupon brought from the Altar the two Sceptres with the Cross and Dove, and delivered them to the Archbishop.

In the meantime, the Duke of Norfolk, as Lord of the Manor of Worksop, presented to the King a Glove, for His Majesty's right hand, embroidered with the Arms of Howard, which His Majesty put on.

The Archbishop then delivered the Sceptre with the Cross into His Majesty's right hand, saying, "Receive the Royal Sceptre," &c.; and then the Sceptre with the Dove into His left hand, saying, "Receive the Rod of Equity," &c.

The Duke of Norfolk, as Lord of the Manor of Worksop, supported His Majesty's right arm, and held the Sceptre as occasion required.

The Archbishop, standing before the Altar, and having St. Edward's Crown before him, took the same into his hands, and consecrated and blessed it, saying the Prayer, "O God, who crownest thy faithful Servants with Mercy," &c. Then the Archbishop, assisted by other Bishops, came from the Altar, the Dean of Westminster carrying the Crown, which the Archbishop took and placed on His Majesty's Head; while the People, with loud and repeated shouts, cried "GOD SAVE THE KING:" &c. the Trumpets sounding, the Drums beating, and the Tower and Park Guns firing by signal. The acclamation ceasing, the Archbishop pronounced the Exhortation: "Be strong and of a good courage," &c. The Choirs then sang the following Anthem: "The King shall rejoice in thy strength." &c.

As soon as the King was crowned, the Princes of the Blood Royal and the other Peers put on their Coronets; the Bishops their Caps; and the Kings of Arms their Crowns.

The Dean then taking the Holy Bible from the Altar, delivered it to the Archbishop, who, attended by the rest of the Bishops, presented it to the King, saying, "Our Gracious King," &c. The King then returned the Bible to the Archbishop, who gave it to the Dean, and it was by him replaced on the Altar.

The Archbishop then pronounced the Benedictions, tions, the Bishops and the Peers answering each Benediction with a loud AMEN. The Archbishop then turning to the People, said, "And the same Lord God Almighty grant," &c. Te Deum was thereupon sung, during which time the King removed to the Chair on which His Majesty first sat, on the east side of the Throne.

Te Deum being ended, the King ascended the Theatre, and was inthroned by the Bishops and Peers; the Archbishop pronouncing the Exhortation, "Stand firm and hold fast," &c.

His Majesty, seated on His Throne, then delivered the Sceptre with the Cross to the Duke of Norfolk, to hold the same on his right hand, and the Sceptre with the Dove to the Duke of Richmond, to hold the same on his left hand, during the Homage.

The Archbishop of Canterbury then knelt before the King, and, for himself and the other Lords Spiritual, pronounced the words of Homage, they kneeling around him, and saying after him. The Archbishop then kissed His Majesty's left cheek, and the rest of the Lords Spiritual did the same, and retired.

During the above ceremony, the Choir sang an Anthem, and the Treasurer of His Majesty's Household threw about the Medals of the Coronation.

Her Majesty the Queen having reposed herself in Her Chair on the south side of the Altar, during the Coronation and Inthronization of His Majesty, arose as soon as the Anthem was ended, and, being supported as before, went to the Altar, attended by her Trainbearer and Ladies-Assistants; and Her Majesty knelt whilst the Archbishop said the Prayer of Consecration. Her Majesty then rose and went to the Chair, at which she was to be anointed and crowned, and which was placed on the left of King Edward's Chair, somewhat nearer to the Altar; and standing there, the Countess Brownlow took off Her Majesty's Circle of Gold, and delivered it to Her Lord Chamberlain.

The Queen then knelt down; and the Duchesses of Richmond, Montrose, and Northumberland, and the Marchioness of Lansdowne, having been summoned by Garter, severally left their places and repaired to the Area, where, holding a rich Pall of Cloth of Gold over Her Majesty, the Archbishop poured the consecrated Oil upon Her Head, saying, "In the name of the Father," &c.

Then

Then the Archbishop received, from the Officer of the Jewel-Office, the Queen's Ring, and put the same on the fourth finger of Her Majesty's right hand, saying, "Receive this Ring," &c.

Then the Archbishop placed the Sceptre with the Cross in Her Majesty's right hand, and the Ivory Rod with the Dove in Her left, and offered up the Prayer, "O Lord, the Giver of all Perfection," &c.

The Queen, being thus anointed and crowned, and having received all Her Ornaments, the Choirs sang the Hallelujah Chorus.

At the commencement of the Chorus, the Queen arose, and, supported as before, ascended the Theatre (reverently bowing to His Majesty as She passed the Throne) and was conducted to Her own Throne on the left hand of that of the King, where Her Majesty reposed until the conclusion of the Chorus.

After the Chorus, the two Bishops, who had read the Epistle and Gospel, received from the Altar, by the hands of the Archbishop, the Patina and the Chalice, which they carried into St. Edward's Chapel, and brought from thence the Bread upon the Patina, and the Wine in the Chalice. Their Majesties then descended from their Thrones, and went to the Altar, where the King, taking off His Crown, delivered it to the Deputy Lord Great Chamberlain to hold, and the Sceptres to the Dukes of Norfolk and Richmond. Then the Bishops delivered the Patina and Chalice into the King's Hands; and His Majesty delivered them to the Archbishop, who reverently placed the same upon the Altar, covering them with a fair linen cloth. The Queen also taking off Her Crown, delivered it to Her Lord Chamberlain to hold, and the Sceptres to those Noblemen who had previously borne them. Their Majesties then went to their Chairs on the south side of the Area. When the Archbishop and the Dean had communicated, their Majesties received the Sacrament, the Archbishop administering the Bread, and the Dean of Westminster the Cup.

The King and Queen then put on their Crowns, and, taking the Sceptres in their Hands as before, repaired again to their Thrones, supported and attended as before.

The Archbishop then read the Communion Service, and pronounced the Blessing; and, at the conclusion, the Trumpets sounded, and the Drums beat.

After which, His Majesty, attended as before, the Four Swords being carried before Him, descended into the Area, and passed through the door on the south side of the Altar, into St. Edward's Chapel; and the Noblemen, who had carried the Regalia, received them from the Dean of Westminster as they passed by the Altar into the Chapel.

The Queen, at the same time, descending from Her Throne, went into the same Chapel, at the door on north side of the Altar.

Their Majesties being in the Chapel, the King, standing before the Altar, delivered the Sceptre with the Dove, which His Majesty had borne in His left hand, to the Archbishop, who laid it upon the Altar.

His Majesty was then disrobed of His Royal Robe of State, or Dalmatic Robe, and arrayed in His Royal Robe of Purple Velvet by the Deputy Lord Great Chamberlain.

The Archbishop then placed the Orb in His Majesty's left hand.

The Noblemen, who had carried the Gold Spurs, and St. Edward's Staff, delivered the same to the Dean, to be by him deposited on the Altar.

Whilst their Majesties were in St. Edward's Chapel, the Officers of Arms arranged the returning procession, which moved at the moment when the King and Queen left the Chapel.

Their Majesties, and the Princes and Princesses, then proceeded out of the Choir, and to the west door door of the Abbey, attended as before; their Majesties wearing their Crowns; the King, bearing in His right hand, the Sceptre with the Cross, and, in His left, the Orb; and the Queen bearing, in Her right hand, Her Sceptre with the Cross, and, in Her left, the Ivory Rod with the Dove: their Royal Highnesses the Princes and Princesses wearing their Coronets; and the Princes, who were Field-Marshals, carrying their Batons. The Four Swords were borne before the King, in the same order as before. The Dean and Prebendaries, and the Bishops, who had carried the Bible, the Chalice, and the Patina, remained in the Choir. The Noblemen who had severally carried the Crowns, the Orb, the Sceptre with the Dove, the Spurs, and St. Edward's Staff, walked in the same places as before; those Noblemen who had Staves and Batons carrying the same; all Peers wearing their Coronets; and the Archbishops, and the Bishops supporting their Majesties, wearing their Caps; and the Kings of Arms their Crowns.

On the arrival of their Majesties on the platform without the west entrance, Garter proclaimed His Majesty's Style, as follows:—"THE MOST HIGH, MOST MIGHTY, AND MOST EXCELLENT MONARCH, WILLIAM THE FOURTH, BY THE GRACE OF GOD, OF THE UNITED KINGDOM OF GREAT BRITAIN AND IRELAND, KING, DEFENDER OF THE FAITH: KING OF HANOVER, DUKE OF BRUNSWICK AND OF LUNENBURGH."

The Swords and the Regalia were received, in the Robing-chambers, by the Officers of the Jewel-Office appointed for that purpose.

Their Majesties, and the Princes and Princesses of the Blood Royal, returned to St. James's Palace with the same State as in their Proceeding to the Abbey.

NORFOLK, EARL-MARSHAL.

The

The King has been graciously pleased to signify, through Lord Viscount Melbourne, One of His Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, His Royal approbation of the arrangements made by the Earl-Marshal for the august Ceremony of the Coronation of their Majesties, and of the regularity with which they were carried into effect: and further to command, that the sense which His Majesty has condescended to express of those services, be communicated to the Officers acting under the directions of the Earl-Marshal.

CEREMONIAL of the Investiture of Admiral Sir Thomas Williams, Admiral Sir William Hargood, Lieutenant-General Sir James-Willoughby Gordon, Bart. and Rear-Admiral Sir Thomas Masterman Hardy, Bart. with the Ensigns of Knights Grand Crosses of the Most Honourable Military Order of the Bath.

The following Knights Grand Crosses, in their mantles and collars of the Order, assembled at St. James's-Palace, viz. His Royal Highness the Duke of Cumberland; His Royal Highness the Duke of Gloucester; Sir James Saumarez, Bart.; Lord Howden; Lord Viscount Beresford; Lord Hill; Sir William Henry Clinton; Sir John Malcolm; Lord Howard of Effingham; the Earl of Ross-

Rosslyn; the Duke of Gordon; and Lord Farnborough; attended by the undernamed Officers of the Order, in their mantles, chains, and badges, viz. Sir George Nayler, Knt. Genealogist of the Order; Algernon Greville, Esq. Bath King of Arms; Captain Michael Seymour, R. N. Register and Secretary of the Order; and George-Frederick Beltz, Esq. Gentleman Usher of the Order.

At two o'clock, the Knights Grand Crosses were called over, and, with the Officers of the Order, proceeded into the presence of the Sovereign in the Throne-room, with the usual reverences.

Then, by His Majesty's command, Admiral Sir Thomas Williams was introduced into the Royal Presence, between the two Junior Knights Grand Crosses present, preceded by Bath King of Arms, bearing the ribband, badge, and star of a Knight Grand Cross of the Order upon a crimson velvet cushion, and by the Gentleman Usher of the Order.

His Royal Highness the Duke of Cumberland, having thereupon received from Bath King of Arms the ribband and badge, presented them to the Sovereign, and Sir Thomas Williams, kneeling, His Majesty was graciously pleased to put the same over the Admiral's right shoulder; Sir Thomas Williams, rising, had the honour to kiss the Sovereign's hand, and having received from His Majesty the star of the Order, withdrew.

Admiral Sir William Hargood, Lieutenant-General Sir James Willoughby Gordon, Bart. and Rear-Admiral Sir Thomas-Masterman Hardy, Bart. were then severally introduced and invested, with the like ceremonies.

St. James's-Palace, September 28, 1831.

This day had audience of His Majesty;

The Prince de Talleyrand, Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary from the King of the French;

The Baron de Cetto, Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary from the King of Bavaria;

And Monsieur de Gersdorff, Minister Resident from the King of Saxony, to deliver letters from their respective Sovereigns:

To which they were severally introduced by Lord Viscount Palmerston, His Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, and conducted by Sir Robert Chester, Knt. Master of the Ceremonies.

At the Court at St. James's, September 28, 1831.

CEREMONIAL of the Investiture of General the Honourable Sir Henry George Grey, General Sir Henry Warde, and Lieutenant-General the Honourable Sir William Lumley, with the Ensigns of Knights Grand Crosses of the Most Honourable Military Order of the Bath.

in their mantles, chains, and badges, viz. Sir George Nayler, Knt. Genealogist of the Order; Algernon Greville, Esq. Bath King of Arms; Captain Michael Seymour, R.N. Register and Secretary of the Order; and George-Frederick Beltz, Esq. Gentleman Usher of the Order.

At two o'clock, the Knights Grand Crosses were called over, and, with the Officers of the Order, proceeded into the presence of the Sovereign in the Throne-room, with the usual reverences.

Then, by His Majesty's command, General the Honourable Sir Henry George Grey was introduced into the Royal Presence, between the two Junior Knights Grand Crosses present, preceded by Bath King of Arms, bearing the ribband, badge, and star of a Knight Grand Cross of the Order upon a crimson velvet cushion, and by the Gentleman Usher of the Order.

His Royal Highness the Duke of Cumberland having thereupon received from Bath King of Arms the ribband and badge, presented them to the Sovereign, and Sir Henry George Grey kneeling, His Majesty was graciously pleased to put the same over the General's right shoulder; Sir Henry George Grey rising, had the honour to kiss the Sovereign's hand, and, having received from His Majesty the star of the Order, withdrew.

General Sir Henry Warde and Lieutenant-General the Honourable Sir William Lumley were then severally introduced, and invested with the like ceremonies.

CEREMONIAL of the Investiture of the Knights Commanders of the Most Honourable Military Order of the Bath.

The Knights Grand Crosses having been invested, Major-General Sir James Douglas, K.C.B. was by com-command of the Sovereign introduced into the Royal Presence, preceded by Sir George Nayler (the Officer of Arms attendant upon the Knights Commanders), bearing upon a crimson velvet cushion, the star appropriated to the second class of the Order.

The Sovereign was then graciously pleased to invest the Major-General with the star of a Knight Commander, whereupon he had the honour to kiss His Majesty's hand, and retired.

Then Lieutenant-General Sir Samuel Venables Hinde, was by command of the Sovereign conducted, with the usual reverences, to His Majesty, preceded by Sir George Nayler, bearing upon a crimson velvet cushion the star, ribband, and badge of the second class of the Order.

The sword of state being thereupon delivered to His Majesty, by His Royal Highness the Duke of Cumberland, the Lieutenant-General, kneeling, was knighted therewith, after which he had the honour to kiss His Majesty's hand. Then Sir George Nayler, on his knee, presenting to the Sovereign the ribband and badge of a Knight Commander, the King was pleased to invest Sir Samuel Venables Hinde with the same.

The Lieutenant-General having again had the honour to kiss the Sovereign's hand, and having received from His Majesty the star of a Knight Commander, retired.

The following Officers were then introduced in a similar manner, and were severally knighted and invested with the ensigns of a Knight Commander, with the same ceremonies, viz.

Major-General Sir John-Wright Guise.
Major-General Sir James Bathurst.
Major-General Sir John Macdonald.
Major-General the Honourable Sir Frederick Cavendish Ponsonby.
Rear-Admiral Sir Graham Eden Hamond, Bart.

* Ma-

SUPPLEMENT

TO THE

LONDON GAZETTE of OCTOBER 7, 1831.

COLONIAL DEPARTMENT.

Downing-Street, October 8, 1831.

DISPATCHES, of which the following are Copies, together with their Inclosures, have been received at this Office from the Governors of Barbados, St. Vincent, and St. Lucia, and also an Extract of a Letter from the Bishop of Barbados:

My Lord, Barbados, August 13, 1831.

NO duty has ever devolved upon me of so heart-rending a nature as the one which it becomes now my melancholy task to perform.

I have to acquaint your Lordship that, on the morning of the 11th instant, this flourishing and happy colony was visited by one of the most dreadful hurricanes ever experienced in the West Indies.

On the evening of the 10th, the sun set on a landscape of the greatest beauty and fertility, and rose on the following morning over an utter desolation and a waste. The prospect at the break of day on the 11th instant, was that of January in Europe,—every tree if not entirely rooted up was deprived of its foliage and of many of its branches; every house with-within my view was levelled with the ground, or materially damaged; and every hour brought intelligence of the most lamentable accidents and of very many shocking deaths.

The evening of the 10th instant, was not remarkable for any peculiarity of appearance that I could observe, and every one in my family went to bed without the least suspicion that any atmospherical changes were likely to disturb their rest. Soon after, however, it began to rain, accompanied with flashes of lightning and high wind; it appeared to me from the north and east; towards midnight the wind increased, and was more to the westward and south-west, the rain fell in torrents and the lightning was vivid in the extreme; at one o'clock, or thereabouts, it was first suspected by me, from its extreme violence, to be a hurricane, and not long after some of my servants came running into the house, saying, that the roof of the kitchen had fallen in. Several poor people in the neighbourhood also took refuge in Government-house, their wooden houses having been blown down.

From about two o'clock until the day broke, it is impossible to convey to your Lordship's mind any idea of the violence of the storm; no language of mine is adequate to express sufficiently its horrors. The noise of the wind through the apertures formed by it, the peals of thunder, and the rapidly repeated flashes of lightning (more like sheets of fire), and the impenetrable darkness which succeeded them, the crash of walls, roofs, and beams, were all mixed in appalling confusion, and the whole house shook to its very foundation; whether this last effect was produced by the force of the wind, or by an earthquake, supposed by many to have accompanied the storm, I am unable to decide; but the rents and fissures which are visible in the massive walls of this building, would lead one to suppose the latter cause only could have produced them.

About this time, two o'clock, finding that Government-house, which had been but recently repaired, was giving way, the Officers of my Staff, myself, and servants, together with some unfortunate persons who had escaped from the neighbouring huts, took refuge in the cellar, where we remained in perfect safety, thank God, until the day dawned; had we continued in the rooms above stairs, or indeed in any other part of the house, there is little doubt our lives must have been sacrificed, from the ruinous appearance presented in the morning.

The tempest did not entirely cease, nor the atmosphere clear up, until about nine o'clock in the morning of the 11th, and then it was we became more sensible of the calamities and heart-breaking consequences of this most awful scourge. Whole families were buried in ruins. Fortunately some of the churches were found less injured than any other buildings (although many are destroyed), and they were instantly thrown open for the reception of the wounded and maimed. Medical aid was procured with all the haste which the encumbered state of the streets and roads would permit, for many trees and houses had fallen across the public ways, and much obstructed our intercourse.

Under these most distressing and appalling circumstances, it is wonderful with what equanimity and fortitude every one seems to bear his loss, and this affords some little consolation to my mind. But I cannot hide from my view the awful prospects of want and destitution, accompanied, as it may be, with pestilence, which must naturally result from such a general and wide spread calamity.

No estimate of damage done or loss sustained can be at present formed, with any degree of accuracy or even surmised; suffice it to say, that there is no exaggeration in the picture I have drawn; and that as soon as any correct opinion can be formed on the subject, your Lordship shall be duly apprised of it.

I must

I must not omit to add, that the barracks and hospitals at St. Ann's are in a state of complete delapidation and ruin; and I have been under the necessity of ordering the troops under canvass. No deaths have occurred amongst the officers, with the exception of one gentleman of the Commissariat Department, a Mr. Flanner, who was entombed with three of his children, a female relative, and two servants, in the ruins of his house. The number of soldiers killed, however, of the corps composing the garrison, viz. the Royal Artillery, the 35th and 36th Regiments, amount, by this day's return, to 36;—and very many accidents of a serious nature have also been sustained by the troops.

I have called a meeting of the Legislature for Monday the 15th instant, the earliest moment which I could hope to collect them together. In the mean time the most wealthy and influential inhabitants are making every effort to relieve the poor, houseless, and destitute. The sacred work of charity has begun, and will be encouraged and assisted by every means in my power; and under circumstances of such grieveous and awful calamity, I look forward with hope and confidence to the sympathies of the mother country.

I will not conclude this dispatch without giving your Lordship the assurance, that my determination is, as well as those who surround me, to meet our accumulated evils with resolution and fortitude, and to exert our best efforts to assuage and mitigate to the utmost of our abilities every distress which may present itself. The task may be arduous, but it will be continued with unshrinking perseverance so long as it may please Almighty Providence to afford us health and strength to do so.

I have the honour to be, &c.

P. S.—It has escaped me to mention that the few ships in Carlisle-bay, were driven high on the strand, but fortunately no lives lost. How far this hurricane may have extended I have hitherto had no means of ascertaining. (Signed) J. L.

Government-House, Barbados,
August 30, 1831.

My Lord,

I HAVE the honour to transmit herewith, two copies of a temporary Act, which was passed by the legislature of this island at their last meeting, and which Act, under the exigencies of the moment, I trust will meet with your Lordship's approbation; its duration, it will be noticed by your Lordship, does not extend beyond a period of thirty days.

The Commissions mentioned in the Act, for clearing the streets, &c. &c. have been in operation for the last fortnight, and it gives me great satisfaction to acquaint your Lordship, that they have been attended with the most beneficial effects.

Free intercourse is again restored; and the slaves, who were much inclined to be idle, and in some instances refractory, have resumed work and are perfectly obedient to their masters. A very favourable reaction has taken place in all quarters, and much activity prevails in roofing in houses, and restoring ruins to habitable form. A committee of philanthropic gentlemen, with the Lord Bishop of the diocese as their chairman, are making every effort to relieve the distresses of the poor and destitute; and the wounded and maimed in St. Michael's Church continue to receive every attention required from the medical gentlemen of the island. With a liberality and good feeling which reflects the highest honour upon the neighbouring colonies who have escaped this most direful visitation, they are daily forwarding in aid of our charities, provisions, materials, and money.

The

The particulars of these munificent acts of charity I shall make known to your Lordship in a future letter; meantime, I may acquaint you, that, with the advice of the Council, I have directed the Officers of His Majesty's Customs to admit free of colonial duty all provisions, &c. which are bonâ fide for the use of the poor.

Your Lordship will learn with much satisfaction that our supply of provisions is such as to remove all fears of want; the weather has been particularly favourable to the ground crops, and the quantity of flour in the island is equal to four months' consumption at the least; the report of our treasury, I regret to say, is not so favourable; I find from the Treasurer that a balance of seven hundred and fifty pounds only remains in the public treasury; but the taxes for the year are still outstanding, with the exception of fifty pounds, which are included in the above balance.

A committee has been appointed in each parish, consisting of the resident Members of Council, the Representatives, the Rector, Churchwarden, and two Vestrymen, to take an account of the deaths, white, black, and coloured, bond and free, and for ascertaining the losses, by the killing of slaves and destruction of property, of every description; and as soon as the result of their labours is made known to me I shall lose no time in transmitting them to your Lordship. I have the honour to be, &c.

Government-House, Barbados,
September 2, 1831.

My Lord,

IT is with feelings overflowing with gratitude that I proceed to give your Lordship an outline of the bountiful and munificent assistance afforded to this devastated island by the sister colonies; these acts acts of charity have been doubly enhanced by the solicitous haste and promptitude with which they have been furnished.

On the 13th ultimo I considered it my duty to make known, as widely as possible, our calamitous circumstances to the neighbouring islands and colonies; and no sooner had the distressing intelligence reached the colonies of Demerara, Grenada, Antigua, Dominica, and Trinidad, than the benevolent inhabitants of each set about preparing supplies, both of provisions and money, for the relief of our destitute sufferers.

All classes and all colours vied with each other in their haste to contribute their mite towards relieving the wants of the poor and houseless; and it is with feelings of pride and satisfaction that I state to your Lordship, that the troops stationed in the different islands have emulated the bright example of the inhabitants; even in this island, where their privations have been great, one day's pay has been subscribed by all ranks; and the 86th regiment, stationed in Antigua, has contributed no less than three days' pay.

By these generous and timely efforts they will have the satisfaction of knowing, that they have alleviated the sorrows of many a widow, and appeased the hunger of many an orphan child, and what reward can be higher I know not.

Copy of a Circular Letter addressed by His Excellency Lieutenant-General Sir James Lyon, Governor of Barbados, to the Governors of the neighbouring Colonies.

Government House, Barbados,
August 13, 1831.

SIR,

I HAVE the melancholy intelligence to communicate to your Excellency, that on the morning of the 11th instant, we had the misfortune to be visited by one of the most awful and violent hurricanes ever experienced in this island.

The loss of life and dreadful accidents are numerous, and the damage done to property is immence, although no correct estimate can be at present formed.

May I request that your Excellency will make known our situation to your community, and communicate, if possible, by the first ship (if any are at present in your port) to England the intelligence, that our situation and wants may be supplied with as much celerity as circmmstances will permit.

It will be obvious, that as nearly every house in the island is levelled, or materially injured, lumber will be much required, and provisions of every kind.

I have the honour, &c.

BARBADOS.

A PROCLAMATION.

By His Excellency Sir James Lyon, K. C. B. and G. C. H. Governor and Commander in Chief of this Island, &c. &c.

J. LYON.

WHEREAS, it having pleased Almighty God to afflict this colony with a most awful and destructive hurricane, which has destroyed all the dwellings and plantations of the inhabitants of the island; and whereas it is apprehended that some evil-disposed persons may attempt to plunder the distressed inhabitants of the few articles and provisions which they have preserved; I do, therefore, hereby order and command all Magistrates and Constables to exert themselves, to the utmost of their power, in preserving, on this melancholy occasion, the peace and tranquillity of the island, and to prevent, as far as in them lies, the depredation and plunder by such evil-disposed persons; and I do require all His Majesty's liege subjects to be assisting to the Magistrates and Constables in the execution of their duty herein. And should the Civil Authorities be found insufficient to uphold the laws, I do hereby require all commanding Officers of the several regiments of Militia of this Island to exercise the power granted to them, by the thirty-first clause of the Militia Act of this Island, by appointing or commanding any sufficient part of their respective regiments as may be needful, to assemble for the purpose of preventing disturbance, and preserving the general peace.

And whereas it has been represented to me, that the principal Merchants of Bridgetown have not enhanced the prices of the necessary articles of life; now I do hereby strongly recommend, that so laudable and benevolent an example may be generally ob-observed; and I trust and expect, that no advantage will be taken by mechanics and other tradesmen in the present lamentable state of the colony: and I do call on and command all the inhabitants of the island, white, free coloured, and slaves, to demean themselves with propriety, order, and decorum; and whatsoever person or persons shall be detected in committing any robberies, or receiving any stolen goods, shall be prosecuted to the utmost rigour of the law.

Given under my hand and seal of arms, at the Town-hall, this fifteenth day of August one thousand eight hundred and thirty-one, and in the second year of His Majesty's reign.

GOD save the KING.

By his Excellency's command,
WILLIAM HUSBANDS, Deputy Secretary.

Extract of a Letter from the Bishop of Barbados to the Right Honourable Viscount Goderich, dated Barbados, August 16, 1831.

MY house is all in ruins, save one room, which I had added to the old building; in this room and the two passages around it, all my family are assembled: every other part has either fallen, or is wholly unroofed.

I am thankful to say, that the lives of myself and wife and family were all preserved, though in most imminent danger.

Government-House, St. Vincent,
August 12, 1831.

My Lord,

IT is my painful duty to report to your Lordship the devastation and desolation occasioned by the most violent hurricane with which this island was ever visited, and in doing so, I beg your Lordship may make due allowance for the imperfect detail which hurry of the moment, under such painful circumstances, must occasion.

At an early hour yesterday morning the storm commenced from the northward, but was not much felt by the principal town and shipping until about half past eight, when its violent effects were destructive in the extreme. Every vessel at the anchorage, with the exception of one, was cast on shore, and I much fear very few are likely to be saved.

It may be said, with few exceptions, that every plantation within this government has sustained damage more or less, by the total destruction of their crops and provisions, of buildings, of works, and negro houses, and in one of the towns, three houses only remain. The public buildings, barracks, and officers' quarters have suffered in like proportion, and I regret to add reports from the various quarters of the government confirm my most painful apprehensions of the loss of life, as well as property.

It will be obvious to your Lordship, that the effects of this awful dispensation of providence must press very heavily on all classes of the community, and unless a timely and abundant supply of the products of America and Great Britain reach us, positive famine and ruin will be the inevitable consequence of this melancholy visitation.

I have written this dispatch, to be in readiness for the first opportunity to England which may offer, and shall keep your Lordship apprized of all measures which may be resorted to, for the alleviation of the prevailing distress. I am, &c.

(Signed) G. F. HILL.

The Right Hon. Viscount Goderich,
&c. &c. &c.

My Lord, St. Vincent, August 27, 1831.

I HAD the honour of addressing an official letter to your Lordship on the 12th of this month, and another, marked private, giving some account of the hurricane of the 11th instant, and its consequences.

These letters I sent to Grenada, to be dispatched by a merchant ship (named the Lord Goderich) which was to sail from thence on Saturday the 20th, for London, and I now inclose duplicates of those letters per mail.

Pursuant to the anticipation in my private letter, I issued a proclamation on Thursday the 18th instant, to admit flour and lumber duty free at this port for the remainder of the year 1831, which measure it is my duty to endeavour to justify.

I had been strongly urged to adopt one more extensive in its operation than this, but I did not feel justified in taking any step to have effect beyond the existing exigency of providing against a want of food and materials for repairing dilapidated buildings and sugar works, and not even this without sufficient proof that an extraordinary step was indispensable.

Accordingly I had every part of the island visited, and due enquiry made into the extent of damage sustained on the negro provision grounds, and in the houses, huts, buildings, and sugar establishments.

In addition, the Privy Council sat from Saturday the 13th to Wednesday the 17th, and took evidence on the subject from gentlemen of the first respectability.

They

They also ascertained the quantity of provision and materials for the repairs in store.

The former appeared inadequate to furnish more than sufficient for five or six weeks' consumption, and the quantity of lumber too scanty to meet any thing like the demand and immediate exertion to reconstruct the habitations, the mills, and the other sugar works.

The Council, therefore, unanimously recommended that flour and lumber should be admitted duty free, until the 31st of December next.

The advanced season of the year rendered timely supplies from British America unlikely, whilst the deplorable situation of Barbados confirmed the necessity of yielding to the proposition. I deemed it inexpedient to extend the period beyond the present year of 1831, for the free admission of flour and lumber, which gives ample time to receive your Lordship's instructions on the subject, and in case of the arrival of sufficient supplies to resume, by proclamation, the payment of duties. There has been an arrival here last week of 500 barrels of flour, and although an embargo at Barbados has been laid against the export of provision (of which we do not in any manner complain) yet I have no dread of absolute want.

Opportunities have offered and have been taken of notifying in Canada, and the United States, the situation of both Barbados and St. Vincent, and supplies direct to each of these islands, may soon be expected from the United States. St. Lucia has not experienced much injury; the other islands to the North (as reported) none at all.

I inclose the Royal St. Vincent's Gazettes for your Lordship's information, which give full particulars of this lamentable occurrence.

I have very great satisfaction in reporting to your Lordship, that neither during the confusion occasioned by the tempest, nor from the dispersion of all sort of property thrown about thereby, have any instances of plunder occurred, or the slightest degree of insubordination. Whereas on some estates the exertions of the negro population, to assist their owners and managers, have been most meritorious, nor have the merchants generally taken advantage of the present distress by enhancing prices. The loss of life has been comparatively with Barbados insignificant. Poor Mr. Littledale (the Judge's brother) and his housekeeper were crushed to death in the ruins of his house, which is the only instance amongst those in his station of life of any person being killed.

I shall feel much anxiety to be informed whether the measure I have ventured to take shall receive your Lordship's approbation.

I have the honour, &c.

(Signed) G. F. HILL.

The Right Hon. Viscount Goderich,

Friday Evening, August 12, 1831.

WE stop the press to announce one of the most awful and destructive visitations of Providence ever experienced in this island. Yesterday morning early the wind commenced blowing from the westward, and continued to increase in violence, attended with a heavy sea, until about ten o'clock, when every vessel in Kingstown Harbour, except the ship Sarah Ward, Captain Moore, and the brig Commerce, Captain Wainwright, was on shore. The wind and sea continuing to increase, it was observed that the Sarah Ward was dragging her anchors and nearing the shore, although slowly. About twelve o'clock, however, all hopes of her safety were at an end, by her ground-grounding opposite Durham's Wharf, one of the most dangerous places in the harbour. The state of the other vessels was now lost sight of, and all eyes were turned towards this ship and her unfortunate crew. The sea continued to increase in violence, breaking completely over her, and as she was nearly loaded (having in upwards of four hundred hogsheads sugar and fifty puncheons rum), she grounded too far from the shore to admit of any escape by the crew, either by swimming or on rafts. Her main and mizen masts were both cut away to lighten her, but unfortunately she bilged, and the water rushing in increased the great weight of her cargo. It was now perceived that the ship was settling fast and heeling over to the sea, and that unless speedy aid was afforded them all on board must perish. Three brave fellows (Sam Bruce, Nelson Morgan, and Healy Gelizeau) launched a canoe and ventured near enough to the vessel to receive a line which was thrown to them, but before they could get to the shore one of them (Healy) was forced overboard with the line in his hand, and having received a heavy blow in the struggle, was picked up senseless, but soon recovered himself. All efforts made from the ship to get a line on shore failed, the reaction of the waves carrying every thing thrown overboard back to the ship, often when just within reach, and one man in too eagerly plunging after a buoy was carried out to sea, and was only saved by a miracle. Interest the most intense was now excited for those on board. The day was waning fast,—the sea unabated in its fury. At length Charles Simmons (slave to Mr. Jones) after many attempts succeeded in slinging a stone with a line attached to it round one of the ropes thrown from the ship, and by that method a hawser was passed to the shore. This was presently secured to the house of Mr. Henry Arrindell, opposite the ship, and every necessary preparation being made on shore and on board, at three o'clock the first man took his leave of the ship. No words can deseribe the anxiety of the spectators on shore for the fate of this man as he was now seen lifted up into the air, and then dashed into the water beneath, according to the movements of the vessel. A few moments however relieved them of their fears —he was brought safely to the shore, and received with a shout that rent the air. In this way twenty-seven fellow-creatures (including six black men employed on board as labourers) were rescued from a watery grave. Captain Moore was the last man but two that left the ship, and they refused to leave her until they saw him safe on shore. The ship shortly after heeled over and beeame a perfect wreck. Not a vestige of property has been saved either by the captain or crew, and these poor fellows (the crew) have now to depend upon charity until they can get employment, which is far distant, the Sarah Ward being the last ship to leave for Europe during the year. Captain Moore himself is too highly esteemed throughout the island, both as a gentleman and seaman, and has too many friends in it, to suffer any privations, and therefore his greatest anxiety must be to see his crew provided for. It is, we hope, superfluous in us to point out what humanity must dictate to every feeling breast—the necessity of making some provision for these unfortunate tars, either by subscription or public donation.

Every man present exerted himself as if the safety of a brother was at stake, and it would, therefore, be a difficult task in us to point out particular individuals; but for all that, we cannot omit mentioning Mr. Joseph Brown, who ran many risks, and who was foremost on all perilous occasions.

Our worthy Governor was seen among the throng as actively engaged as any other individual. His warm heart sympathised with those on board, and by none was the communication with the ship hailed with more satisfaction than himself. His Excellency, as soon as the crew of the ship were placed in safe-safety, sent off to the garrison and obtained an Officer's guard for the protection of property, which were posted all along the shore, and which judicious disposition prevented plunder to any extent. We lament to say that the destruction on shore is also great; numbers of houses in town and in other parts of the island have been destroyed. The barracks at Dorsetshire-hill were blown down, and several buildings on Fort Charlotte injured. We have heard but few reports from the country; those that have reached us are truly distressing. Numbers of estates have suffered in buildings alone to a great amount. In Chateaubellair there are only three houses standing.

Barrouallie and Layou have also suffered, and in Buccament not one estate has escaped the fury of the wind. A good judge has estimated the damage done to the island at £200,000 sterling.

The following is a list of the vessels stranded:—

In Kingstown Harbour.

Ship Sarah Ward; brigs Diamond, Agenora, St. Vincent, Neptune, New Orleans of Quebec, and Emerald of Halifax; schooners Sector, Barbados Packet, Emily, Rambler; sloops Lady of the Isles, Ariel, Susannah, Adelaid, Eurus, Lady Adventurer, Thetis of Grenada; American Brigantine Dove, of Yarmouth, and schooner Henry Clay, of Elizabeth City.

Calliaqua—Sloop William M'Caul.

Greatheed's Bay—Sloops Despatch and Fanny.

Bequia—Schooner Zephyr; sloop Shark.

Canouan—Schooner Delta.

Mustique—Sloop Jane.

Savanna—Schooner Union; sloop Triangle.

To the above must be added a topsail schooner, with cattle, (name unknown), which foundered off the point. Several droghers are missing.

The Commerce rode out the gale with loss of both masts.

From

From the Royal St. Vincent Gazette of August 18, 1831.

THE details of the storm which we gave in our last were confined chiefly to the destruction of marine property; and although such accounts as had then reached us from the country led us to anticipate considerable loss in buildings, yet we did not contemplate that this week we should have to deplore, not only the devastation of nearly the whole island, but the loss of many lives. The distress in the windward and leeward quarters beggars all description. On many estates every building has been levelled with the earth—the proprietors and white servants taking refuge in temporary huts, and the slaves by hundreds huddled together under broken walls and fragments of houses. Joined to these miseries, famine is staring the inhabitants in the face. Provision grounds every where destroyed, and the crops of yams, which were just ready for digging, all washed away by the heavy rains. Not a plantain tree remains standing on some estates, nor indeed a tree of any description. The responsible and expensive duty of providing for the slave thus falls suddenly upon the master at a time that he needs assistance for himself, and when he cannot look forward to any alleviation of his distresses; for most of the early canes for the ensuing crop have been destroyed; so that even with a succession of favourable weather, he cannot calculate upon more than half a crop next year. To add to these afflictions, flour and meal, as was to be expected, have taken a sudden and rapid rise in price, and are getting scarce. But even these accumulated misfortunes might have been borne for a time, had there remained a chance of getting supplies from Barbados, whither several vessels have been sent; but the woful tidings received from that heap of ruins have bereaved us of all hope in that quarter; and should should an All-wise Being have visited with his scourge the colonies to the northward, our only anchor of hope for many months must rest on America; and there, in our opinion, instant application ought to be made, as well for the necessaries of life as for the means of rebuilding our ruined habitations.

The advance of the wind in the northern quarter of the island on Thursday is described as most terrific. In vain did man by art construct edifices which he relied upon as capable of resisting the fury of the elements.—The wind passed over them, and they were no more to be seen. The stoutest and the hardiest trees were uprooted like saplings, and scattered in the air like twigs.—Houses were lifted up entire and thrown to an incredible distance from their foundations. The memorable hurricane of 1780, although its approaches were more awful, attended as it was by loud peals of thunder, incessant rains, a roaring sea, and vivid lightning, none of which accompanied the late storm, save heavy rains, was far less destructive. Its effects were more felt in the towns by the demolition of houses, but the country throughout was not near so much injured. The storm of Thursday was one of wind, which passed over the land with resistless fury, sweeping every thing before it. Among those who lost their lives during its continuance were the Honourable Johnson Littledale, and his housekeeper, Miss Jessy Douglass, who were both killed at Owia, by the falling on them of a house; also the infant son of James Sutherland, Esquire, who was killed in his mother's arms, on Waterloo Estate, as the unfortunate lady fled with him out of a falling house. Sixteen slaves were also killed.

We have used our best endeavours to collect the disasters and losses on each estate, as well for public information as to make an estimate of the general loss; and as our applications were readily attended to by attornies and others, we have it in our power to give to the public to day a pretty full statement of such losses and disasters, although there are several properties that have suffered much from which we have no accounts. Far from having overrated in our last number the amount of the loss sustained, this statement, fairly estimated, points out the immediate loss to be much nearer £500,000 than £200,000. Frightful as this amount is to an already impoverished people, yet could they see their way clear, firmness, economy, and perseverance, aided by friendly assistance, may enable them to surmount their difficulties; but worn down as they are by oppression—their hopes blasted, and a certainty of increased expenditure, with diminished resources to meet it, what have they before them but prospects the most appalling?

Some correct idea may be formed of the injuries sustained in the Charaib Country only, when we state that by an estimate made for one estate there, it will require 150,000 feet of lumber alone to replace what has been destroyed. Many estates, we fear, will never resume their pristine grandeur.

Tourama—Every building destroyed, with the exception of the sick house and one negro house.

Orange-hill—Every building destroyed, with the exception of one negro house; 6 negroes killed, also a number of mules and cattle and 2 horses.

Bostock-Park—The walls of the works and 1 overseers'-house standing; negro-houses all destroyed, except 2; the whole of the manager's furniture, clothes, &c. destroyed; 1 child, 3 mules, 2 cattle, killed; store-house at Nootka Sound unroofed.

Rose-Bank—Buildings and negro-houses completely destroyed.

Petit Bordel and Sharpes—Buildings and negro-houses materially injured; dwelling and out-houses down.

Golden Grove—Negro-houses, megass-house, and mule-pens down; dwelling-house injured.

Fitzhughes—Buildings all destroyed, except mill and curing-houses; negro-houses nearly all down.

Wallibou—Dwelling and negro-houses, mule and cattle-pens, totally destroyed; sick-house thrown down; works unroofed; one woman killed; canes destroyed.

Richmond—Buildings totally destroyed, except one room in the manager's-house; negro-houses down; stores stores on the bay, full of supplies and produce, totally destroyed; all the canes swept away.

Fancy—A wilderness; 4 negroes killed.

Not only are the forward canes for the ensuing crop, together with the negro provision grounds upon these estates, either totally destroyed or greatly injured, but every other estate, with few exceptions, has received a like injury.

All the wharfs at Rabaca, which were built at a vast expence of money and labour, are demolished, and the store-houses destroyed.

Every small settlement in the leeward quarter destroyed. The habitations of the Charaibs, at Morne Rond, all destroyed.

The Proprietor of Rabaca and No. 14 has authorised us to give the following rough sketch of the damage done to his own estates, those under his charge of which he has received returns, and other estates in the immediate neighbourhood of his residence. This sketch reached us at a late hour.

Lot 14—Mill-house unroofed, the mason-work walls remaining; boiling-house, front and back walls, down to the seats of the coppers; copper-hole shades blown away; curing-house unroofed, the cellar below is only remaining; still-house ditto ditto; 2 megass-houses, the greater part down; hospital, with doctor's-shop and nurses'-room entirely gone; walls of the kitchen remaining; dwelling-house, one half remaining; kitchen and store down; overseers'-house, one half down, the other part must be taken down; manager's-house, in a similar state; stables, pens, cooper, carpenter, and blacksmiths' shops, all down; all the negro-houses unroofed, most of them down; canes and provisions above ground levelled with the earth.

Rabaca—Works, negro-houses, and out-houses, as nearly as possible in the same condition; manager's-house house and hospital standing; mills and stills, on both estates, uninjured; wharf and bay store entirely gone, no part remaining.

Langley-Park—Works, negro-houses, and out-houses, in the same state as Rabaca; dwelling-house and hospital unroofed—both may be repaired.

No lives lost on the three above estates.

Waterloo—In same condition as the above.

Orange-Hill—Same; negro-houses on both all down.

Tourama—If possible, in a worse state than the estates to the southward; no part of the works, excepting the stone walls, standing.

The Fancy—Much in the same state.

Richmond—Also in a similar state, nothing but the mason-work walls of the cellar standing.

The following Vessels were driven on shore where they still remain:

Barques—Irlam and Arethusa. Brigs—Exchange, Quebec, Decagon, Mary, Kezia, Alliance, Antionette, Horatio Nelson, and Eliza. Brigantine—Samuel Hinds. Schooners—Ark and Perseverance. Mail-boats—Barbados and Montague.

The brigantine Heroine was in the Careenage, where she remained in comparative safety, having suffered only in the rigging. The Schooner James was also in the Careenage, and sustained little damage, except the loss of masts.

The schooner Elizabeth sailed hence for Demerara on Wednesday afternoon. She fortunately weathered the storm, and returned here, when she was employed by his Excellency the Governor, to proceed to that colony, with dispatches, in the hope of falling in with a homeward bound vessel; but failing in that they would be immediately forwarded to England by his Excellency Sir Benjamin D'Urban, Governor-General of British Guiana.

The

The schooner Agnes, which arrived on Friday morning from Trinidad has also been employed in the service of Government. She sailed last night, but her destination is not exactly known.

The merchants of this town, although sufferers themselves to a considerable extent, have spurned the opportunity of demanding an increase in the price of provisions. Care should be taken to prevent any unfeeling huckster from profiting unfairly by this liberality.

His Excellency the Governor called a meeting of the Honourable Board of Council for to-day, We have not been informed of the result of their deliberations.

It will be seen that H. De Wald, Esq. has generously come forward for the assistance of the poor and destitute, with a spontaneous offer of ten barrels of flour; and as the vestry have made an appeal to the public we trust there are many others who will lose no time in contributing to the relief of their wretched fellow beings.

Saint Vincent.

By His Excellency the Right Honourable Sir George Fitzgerald Hill, Bart. Captain-General and Governor in Chief in and over the Island of St. Vincent, Bequia, and such other the Islands, commonly called the Grenadines, as lie to the Northward of Carriacou, in America, Chancellor, Ordinary, and Vice-Admiral of the same, &c. &c. &c.

A PROCLAMATION.

George F. Hill.

WHEREAS, from the consequences of the dreadful hurricane with which this island and its dependencies were visited on Thursday morning, the 11th instant, it is essentially necessary, for their relief, to encourage the importation of the only article of food which bears a duty, namely, flour, and of such materials as are required to repair the extensive damage which has been sustained in houses, buildings, and sugar works over the greatest part of this colony; I do therefore, by and with the advice and consent of His Majesty's Privy Council, authorise and require the Port of Kingstown to be opened accordingly for the admission of flour, and of white, yellow, and pitch pine boards, plank, and scantling and shingles, free of all duties payable thereon, until the 31st day of December now next ensuing; of which all Officers of His Majesty's Customs, and all others whom it doth, shall, or may concern, are hereby required to take due notice, and to govern themselves accordingly.

Given under my hand and seal at arms, at the Government-house, in Kingstown, this eighteenth day of August one thousand eight hundred and thirty-one.

By his Excellency's command,

THOMAS MELVILLE,
Government Secretary.

Duly proclamed in Kingstown, this eighteenth day of August one thousand eight hundred and thirty-one, and in the second year of His Majesty's reign,

C. D. STEWART, Act. Pro. Mar. Gen.

From the St. Vincent's Gazette of August 25.

SINCE our last we have collected the particulars of the damages sustained by several estates which were not then mentioned.

Ab-

Abstract of Damages sustained by the following Estates during the Storm of the 11th Instant.

Bellvue—Roof of the curing-house stripped; tiles off the boiling-house; megass-house destroyed; negro-houses injured.

Coumacrabou—Roofs of the boiling, still, and dwelling-houses stripped; mill-spout blown to pieces; all the negro-houses, except two, destroyed.

Sion-Hill—Mule and cattle-pens and two horse-stables destroyed; 2 megass-houses blown down; part of the boiling-house unroofed; several negro-houses blown down, the others injured; 5 mules, 1 horse, 1 ox, 3 sheep, killed.

Cane-Garden—Both megass-houses, mule, pen, horse-stable, and one negro-house blown down; mill-house unroofed; half the works untiled, and the other buildings materially injured; 2 cattle killed.

Montrose—Pens and megass-house unroofed; 1 negro-house destroyed; 1 cattle killed.

Liberty-Lodge—Stable, mule-pen, and mill-spouting completely destroyed; mansion-house, boiling-house, and kitchen much injured.

Pembroke—One megass-house unroofed; boiling-house roof stripped; pens blown down; negro-houses much injured.

Mount Wynne—Works slightly injured in the roofs; mule and cattle-pens and cooper's shop destroyed.

Reversion—Boiling-house partly untiled; gallery of the dwelling-house blown down; megass-houses destroyed.

Wallilabou—No return.

Grove—Boiling-house unroofed; mill-house, 2 megass-houses and 9 negro-houses down; spouting and canal carried away; 2 mules and 1 ox killed.

Lance Mahaut—Mule-round blown down; all the works unroofed; all the negro-houses, except six, destroyed; gallery of the dwelling-house carried away.

Mount Alexander—Boiling and mill-house roofs stripped; all the negro-houses destroyed, except one or two.

The other estates in the island, as well as those in the Grenadines, received but trifling injuries, except in their canes and provision grounds.

My Lord, St. Lucia, August 18, 1831.

I BEG leave to acquaint your Lordship that, on the morning of the 11th instant, this island experienced a most violent hurricane, which has occasioned more damage and loss than the hurricane of the year 1817. I am happy to add that few lives have been lost, but the plantations to the windward and southward side of the island have suffered severely. I inclose, for your Lordship's information, the St Lucia Gazette, which gives a more full and detailed account than the limits of a letter will admit of. The losses sustained by the colony may, as far as I can judge at present, be estimated at from twenty-five to thirty thousand pounds sterling, but the returns from the different quarters of the island have not yet been received.

I have the honour to be, &c.

(Signed) M. A. BOZON, Lieut. Col. administering the Government.

The Right Hon. Viscount Goderich,

From

From the St. Lucia Gazette of August 17, 1831.

IT becomes our painful and distressing duty to announce that this island has just experienced one of those awful visitations to which the West India islands are occasionally, though not frequently, subjected; and which, when they do occur, leave awful proofs of their destructive and resistless power. On the night of Wednesday last, the sky had a very heavy lowering appearance, which was scarcely regarded, but early on Thursday morning, the wind North, it commenced to blow very fresh, which continued encreasing, accompanied with some rain, until five o'clock, when its augmenting violence excited a strong sensation of alarm, the wind varying a little to the East, which was generally considered favourable; but by seven or half-past seven o'clock, no doubt was entertained but that we were doomed to encounter all the dangers of an hurricane: which heretofore was considered as only to occur with a westerly wind. At a little after eight o'clock our harbour presented a most awful appearance, the sea running mountains high, and breaking with appalling violence on the South side: the vessels all endeavouring to secure a safe anchorage, while many of them, totally ungovernable, led to the natural conclusion that they at least, if not the hands on board, were doomed to destruction, while, through the town, tides, shingles, arms of trees, fragments of houses, and other dangerous missiles were flying rapidly about, and retained almost uninterrupted possession of the streets; in this awful situation, the town was situated from about half-past eight o'clock until twelve, when the wind, which was not one continued gale, but frequent and violent gusts, became more moderate, and though after that hour there were a few violent squalls, before two o'clock it was comparativcly calm: during the continuence of the gale, gale, it rained unceasingly but not violently, and the wind varied very little: at the commencement it was North, and went as far as E.S.E., but was most steady and of longest continuance at E. Had the wind got into the West we would have had to contend with the sea, which would have inundated a great portion of the town with several feet of water. The damage has been considerable, principally here, however, to the shipping, and we would have felt satisfaction could we confine the loss to property only, but we fear that many individuals have also fallen victims to its violence. One man endeavouring to cross the harbour in a boat was lost, and a boy endeavouring to get from the brig Victory to the wharf was drowned: a man was found dead on the Chaussee: these are the only loss of lives of which we have heard within the town.

When the gale commenced there were many vessels in the harbour: of the small crafts several got into the old Caranage and rode out the gale in safety.

The ship Magnet dragged her anchor and drifted, but fortunately her side came against a bank on the south side of the harbour, and she was there secured without injury. Captain M'Minn was, at the commencement of the gale, at the Marques Estate, and came across the island on foot, encountering very great fatigue and danger, and arrived in time sufficient to secure the safety of his vessel, but not until after she had dragged her anchor and drifted.

The brig Victory which lay near to the wharf, was in a very critical and unmanageable situation for some time: her own situation and that of the wharf being for some hours problematical; however her crew succeeded in getting her some way out and in safe anchorage where she rode out the gale in safety, as did the brig Antigua.

The sloop Atalanta, belonging to Mr. Glandut, and schooner Sir Edward Barnes, belonging to Captain Marc, were driven on shore, but have not, we underderstand, experienced much injury; the sloop Juno, belonging to Mr. Dusard, and the Sir John Keene, belonging to Mr. Cuvallier, and some of the smaller craft, are lying on their sides on the southern side of the harbour, and it is hoped will be all got off without any very serious damage.

The brig Coquette, Captain Hinds, which only arrived on Tuesday, was however the vessel most exposed to danger, as she lay nearly at the mouth of the harbour and under a most heavy sea; however early and precautionary measures on the part of the Captain fully proved the advantage of good seamanship, and she rode triumphant and uninjured on the waves.

In the town there were very few houses that did not suffer more or less. The premises occupied by the Chief Secretary appear to have suffered the most; the back dwelling-house in New-street was almost entirely uncovered. The front house in Manoel-street had almost all the glass in the windows broke, and one window, glass, sashes and all, was knocked to pieces; the kitchen was nearly uncovered, and the Secretary's office partially injured by the falling of a cocoa nut, and of two very beautiful cocoa nut trees in the yard, one of them was nearly prostrated, being torn up from the root; a very large bread fruit tree and several large poplars were torn from the roots, and with the plaintain and other trees, and all the railing, and a great part of the grape frame, and several gates, doors, and window-shutters, all laid prostrate on the ground; while the canopy over the entrance to the stores was almost entirely destroyed, and the heavy sheets of lead which covered it blown about in various directions—the entire premises exhibit a scene of devastation and ruin.

A large house on the south of the bridge, which belonged to the late widow Smith, and in which three families resided, was removed, in toto, about twenty feet behind its original position, as was a small small house belonging to Mr. Teague at the other side of the road.

In the house in which the First President resides, one window, glass, frame and all, was demolished.

The premises of Mr. Muter suffered severely, chiefly in the loss of tiles.

In Marie Saint-street the large wooden frame of a house was laid prostrate on the ground. Several small wooden houses, from thirty to forty in number, altogether disappeared. One of the large trees in the market square was taken up from the root, and the others nearly felled; and in every direction the streets were filled with the scattered fragments of dilapidated, or rather dissipated, buildings, branches of trees, and all the other emblems of the destructive influence of the angry winds in a tropical climate.

The house in which the gunners of the artillery resided, on the Tapton, was blown away, and not a vestige of it remains, while the artillery-men were for some time placed in imminent danger, as the sea washed over the rock; they secured their safety by getting under the guns on the battery.

Government House, which was unoccupied, has suffered very much; one of the porticos is nearly destroyed and the other much injured; the glass in the drawing-rooom all broke, and other material damage sustained.

On the Morne they also suffered very much, and the greater number of the small huts were prostrated.

When we now write (Saturday), we have not had sufficiently authentic information from the interior of the island, but from what we have learned the accounts will be of the most calamitous description. In Soufriere we are informed that two lives were lost, and twenty-eight houses levelled to the ground. The schooner Steer-me-well, belonging to Mr. Joseph Gerard, the schooner Rattlesnake, belonging to Messrs. M'Gowan, and sloop Greyhound, belonging to Mr. Andrew Gerard, dragged their anchors and went to sea, the crews being all on shore ; and the sloop Mary Jane, belonging to Messrs. Ferguson and Co., with seven of the crew on board, was also forced to sea.

The town of View-Fort has also similarly suffered ; we are told that almost the entire of the town was blown down ; the bark Sandwich, Captain King, which lay there, preserved her safety by cutting away her masts, and the ship Cuba, belonging to Messrs. Ferguson and Co. was forced to sea.

At Denery the sloop Duncan Ferguson, belonging to Mr. Philip Pugole, was totally wrecked, and one man lost.

There are also four other vessels belonging to the island with their crews missing.

On Thursday evening the schooner Warrior, from Grenada for Barbados, arrived here under jury masts ; she reached within twenty-five miles of Barbados when she was obliged to change her course, and, after weathering the storm, with loss of masts and other damage, succeeded in making this port.

We would feel inclined to think that Barbados has suffered still more severely than this island, and that to these two islands will be confined the destructive ravages of the tempest.

This awful visitation of Providence, though by no means dealt to us according to the measure of our deserts, must plunge this island in great, if not in irretrievable, distress. For some time past we had great murmurings and repinings, strong expressions of distress and poverty, exaggerated statements and contentions, and frivolous complaints of the weather, the crops, the resources of the colony, its grievances, severe taxation, and oppressive government, both as regards the local executive and the mother country, but as we considered them undeserving any serious attention, and emanating more from a spirit of discontent and dissatisfaction than from any real or existing cause, we should not have made any allusion to them, were it not that it is the will of Providence that our imaginary suffering should be converted into real calamities; and that now distress in the most extended form, if not famine and disease, is with too much reason to be anticipated, and to which all the energies of those best calculated to check or mitigate them ought to be immediately directed. At present, the greatest sufferers are those least able to afford it, the poorer classes in the destruction of their dwellings and their provision grounds; but in any community, and more particularly in a community constituted as is that of St. Lucia, it is impossible that famine and disease can be confined to one class of society; it will extend itself through all ranks; a white complexion will afford no shield against its effect; it is therefore the duty of all, but more especially of all who can afford it, to adopt such immediate measures, zealously and liberally, as will afford relief where required, and check, in some degree, the dreadful consequences of our recent and no doubt justly merited, though severe manifestation of the dire displeasure of the All Just Disposer of Events.

We are satisfied if an appeal is made to His Majesty's Government, that assistance may be acquired, provided it appears that there has been no want of zeal and energy in the colony; and provided that a representation free from any of those hyperbolical statements for which St. Lucia is so deservedly celebrated, but fairly and fully explaining the consequences likely to result, and which require to be averted, is made to the Secretary of State; if any other is made, its fallacies and absurdities must and will be refuted, and our wants and our distresses will meet the same commiseration which they did in 1817, when the representations which were made were so absurd, and the stile in which they were couched so ridiculous that they were deemed totally undeserving of any attention.

We have communicated with different persons as to the comparative violence of the hurricane of 1817, and that which we have now experienced, and from the most accurate information we can obtain, we are disposed to think that the strength of the wind on this occasion was not by any means inferior to that of 1817, but that in Castries, the former was more appalling, in consequence of the effect of the sea, and the wind blowing from the west, which caused the leeward of the island to suffer considerably more than the eastern line of coast, while now the windward has suffered most: there cannot however be a doubt but that the injury sustained throughout the island will exceed that of the great hurricane of 1817.

Our accounts from the interior of the island are very distressing; the plantations have all sufferered considerably. Throughout the island the negro huts have been almost entirely destroyed, and on many estates the works are injured: several fine cane pieces are swept away, and the coffee crop will not exceed one third of what it was fairly calculated to produce.

The deplorable situation of the town on Thursday last prevented any attendance at our office; and on Friday morning we found it in much disorder; our present publication has consequently been in some degree retarded.

The hull of a vessel, supposed to be an American brig, was thrown into one of the bays on the windward of the island; the body of a white dead man, in a sailor's garb, was in the cabin.

The island of St. Vincent has, we are informed, suffered still more severely than this island.

It is with considerable pleasure we announce the safety of the Cuba, Captain Wyley; she is now sig-signalled: this is the only missing vessel of which there is any account.

The Duke of York army-transport is just signalled; we will be able to ascertain from her how Barbados was affected by the hurricane.

St. James's-Palace, October 12, 1831.

THIS day the Right Honourable the Lord Mayor, the Aldermen, Recorder, Sheriffs, Common Council, and Officers of the City of London, waited upon His Majesty with the following Address; which was read by Newman Knowlys, Esq. the Recorder; and which His Majesty was graciously pleased to receive on the Throne:

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

The dutiful and loyal Address of the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Commons of the City of London, in Common Council assembled.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE, your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Commons of the City of London, in Common Council assembled, most humbly approach your Majesty with the warmest sentiments of loyalty and attachment to your Majesty's sacred Person and Government.

We beg to represent to your Majesty, that we have received, with feelings of the deepest sorrow and dismay, the intelligence of the House of Lords having turned a deaf ear to the nation's voice, by refusing their sanction to the bill for amending the representation of the people in Parliament, a measure pre-pre-eminently calculated to consolidate the peace, prosperity, and liberties of the people.

We beg further to assure your Majesty, that we entertain unabated confidence in the firmness and patriotism of your Majesty, and in the wisdom and integrity of your Majesty's Government; and we look with intense anxiety for the fulfilment of the noble declaration of your Majesty's Prime Minister, that he will be true to the duties imposed upon him by the confidence of the King and the people, by instantly employing every constitutional means to carry this all-important measure.

We beg, likewise, to assure your Majesty, that we are satisfied the people of England will devote every energy of mind and body to uphold the stability of your Majesty's Throne, and preserve the constitutional institutions of the country; but we are equally convinced, that nothing but the most prompt and energetic measures on the part of your Majesty's Government, to revive the hopes of your people, and give them a certain prospect of the immediate passing of a bill, similar to that which has been rejected, will prevent the most fearful national commotions.

At the same time we beg to assure your Majesty of our continued attachment to your Majesty's Royal Person and Government, and of our cordial co-operation in those measures which are so essentially calculated to promote the peace and happiness of your Majesty's people.

Signed by order of Court,

Henry Woodthorpe.

To which Address His Majesty was pleased to return the following most gracious Answer:

" I receive with satisfaction the expression of your loyalty and attachment to my Person and Govern-vernment, and of your confidenee in my Constitutional Advisers.

" You may be assured of my sincerc desire to uphold and to improve the securities afforded by the Constitution, for the maintenance of the just rights of my people; and you may rely on my continued disposition to further the adoption of such measurcs as may seem best calculated for that purpose.

" For the safe and successful accomplishment of such measures, it is above all things necessary, that they should be discussed with calmness and deliberation; and I earnestly recommend to you, to use all the influence you justly possess with your fellow citizens, for the purpose of preserving the public peace from any interruption by acts of violence and commotion."

They were all received very graciously, and had the honour of kissing His Majesty's hand.

CHOLMONDELEY, D. G. C.

FROM THE

LONDON GAZETTE of OCTOBER 21, 1831.

Lord Chamberlain's-Office, October 21, 1831.

NOTICE is hereby given, that His Majesty's Levees will be discontinued till further orders.

St. James's-Palace, October 20, 1831.

THIS day His Majesty proceeded in state from St. James's-Palace to the House of Peers, where he arrived about a quarter past two o'clock; and, having alighted from the state coach, was received at the portico by the Great Officers of State and others, and proceeded to the robing-room in the customary manner.

His Majesty was there robed, and having put on the imperial crown, the procession moved into the House in the usual order.

His Majesty being seated upon the Throne, the Great Officers of State and others standing on the right and left, Sir Thomas Tyrwhitt, Knt. Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod, was sent with a message from His Majesty to the House of Commons, commanding their attendance in the House of Peers. The Commons being come thither accordingly, His Majesty was pleased to deliver the folfollowing most gracious Speech to both Houses of Parliament:

My Lords, and Gentlemen,

I AM at length enabled to put an end to a session of unexampled duration and labour, in which matters of the deepest interest have been brought under your consideration.

I have felt sincere satisfaction in confirming, by My Royal Assent, Bills for the amendment of the Game Laws, and for the reduction of taxes which pressed heavily on the industry of My people; and I have observed with no less pleasure the commencement of important improvements in the Law of Bankruptcy, from which the most beneficial effects may be expected.

I continue to receive the most gratifying proofs of the friendly disposition of Foreign Powers.

The Conference assembled in London has at length terminated its difficult and laborious discussions, by an arrangement unanimously agreed upon by the Plenipotentiaries of the Five Powers for the separation of the States of Holland and Belgium, on terms by which the interests of both, together with the future security of other Countries, have been carefully provided for.

A Treaty, founded on this arrangement, has been presented to the Dutch and Belgian Plenipotentiaries; and I trust that its acceptance by their respective Courts, which I anxiously expect, will avert the dangers by which the peace of Europe was threatened whilst this question remained unsettled.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons,

I thank you for the provision made for the future dignity and comfort of My Royal Consort, in the event of Her surviving Me, and for the supplies which you have granted for the service of the present year year. You may be assured of My anxious care to have them administered with the strictest attention to a well-considered economy.

The state of Europe has made it necessary to incur, in the various establishments of the public service, an increased expenditure, which it will be My earnest desire to reduce, whenever it can be done with safety to the interests of the country. In the meantime I have the satisfaction of reflecting that these demands have been provided for without any material addition to the public burthens.

My Lords, and Gentlemen,

In the interval of repose which may now be afforded you, I am sure it is unnecessary for Me to recommend to you the most careful attention to the preservation of tranquillity in your respective counties. The anxiety which has been so generally manifested by My People for the accomplishment of a Constitutional Reform in the Commons' House of Parliament, will, I trust, be regulated by a due sense of the necessity of order and moderation in their proceedings.

To the consideration of this important question the attention of Parliament must necessarily again be called at the opening of the ensuing session; and you may be assured of My unaltered desire to promote its settlement, by such improvements in the representation as may be found necessary for securing to My people the full enjoyment of their rights, which, in combination with those of the other orders of the State, are essential to the support of our free Constitution.

Then the Lord Chancellor, by His Majesty's command, said:

My Lords, and Gentlemen,

It is His Majesty's royal will and pleasure, that this this Parliament be prorogued to Tuesday the twenty-second day of November next, to be then here holden; and this Parliament is accordingly prorogued to Tuesday the twenty-second day of November next.

At the Council-Chamber, Whitehall, the 20th day of October 1831,

By a Committee of the Lords of His Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council.

THEIR Lordships this day took into consideration certain rules and regulations proposed by the Board of Health, for the purpose of preventing the introduction and spreading of the disease, called Cholera Morbus in the United Kingdom, together with an account of the symptoms and treatment of the said disease: and were pleased to order that the same be printed and published in the Gazette, and circulated in all the principal ports, creeks, and other stations of the said United Kingdom, with a view that all persons may be made acquainted therewith, and conform themselves thereto.

W. L. Bathurst.

THE measures of external precaution for preventing the introduction of the cholera morbus by a rigorous quarantine, have hitherto been found effectual, but as the disease approaches the neighbouring shores, not only is the necessity of increased vigilance more apparent, but it is also consistent with common prudence that the country should be prepared to meet the possible contingency of so dreadful a calamity. The intention of the following observations, therefore, is to submit to the public such suggestions as it appears to the Board of Health should should either be immediately acted upon, or so far carried into operation as that, in any case, the country should not be found uninformed as to the best means of providing for its internal protection.

To effect the prevention of the introduction of the disorder, the most active co-operation not only of the local authorities along the coast in the measures of the Government, but likewise the exercise of the utmost caution by all the inhabitants of such parts of the country becomes indispensably necessary. The quarantine regulations established by the Government are sufficient, it is confidently hoped, to prevent the disorder from being communicated through any intercourse with the Continent in the regular channel of trade or passage, but they cannot guard against its introduction by means of the secret and surreptitious intercourse which is known to exist between the coast of England and the opposite shores.

By such means this fatal disorder, in spite of all quarantine regulations, and of the utmost vigilance on the part of the Government, might be introduced into the United Kingdom; and it is clear that this danger can only be obviated by the most strenuous efforts on the part of all persons of any influence, to put a stop to such practices; the utmost exertions should be used to effect this end. The Magistrates, the Clergy, and all persons resident on the coast, it is hoped will endeavour to impress upon the population of their different districts (and particularly of the retired villages along the sea shore), the danger to which they expose themselves by engaging in illicit intercourse with persons coming from the Continent; and should appeal to their fears in warning them of the imminent risk which they incur by holding any communication with smugglers, and others who may evade the quarantine regulations.

To meet the other objects adverted to in the intro-troduction, namely, to prepare for the possible contingency of the country being visited by this disorder, as well as to assist in its prevention, it is recommended that in every town and village, commencing with those on the coast, there should be established a local board of health, to consist of the Chief and other Magistrates, the Clergyman of the parish, two or more Physicians or Medical Practitioners, and three or more of the principal inhabitants; and one of the Medical members should be appointed to correspond with the Board of Health in London.

Every large town should be divided into districts, having a district committee of two or three members, one of whom should be of the medical profession, to watch over its health, and to give the earliest information to the Board of Health in the town, whose instructions they will carry into effect.

As the most effectual means of preventing the spreading of any pestilence, has always been found to be the immediate separation of the sick from the healthy, it is of the utmost importance that the very first cases of cholera which may appear, should be made known as early as possible; concealment of the sick would not only endanger the safety of the public, but (as success in the treatment of the cholera has been found mainly to depend on medical assistance having been given in the earliest stage of the disease) would likewise deprive the patient of his best chance of recovery.

To carry into effect the separation of the sick from the healthy, it would be very expedient that one or more houses should be kept in view in each town or its neighbourhood, as places to which every case of the disease, as soon as detected, might be removed, provided the family of the affected person consent to such removal, and in case of refusal, a conspicuous mark ("Sick") should be placed in front of the house, to warn persons that it is in quarantine; and even when persons with the disease shall have been removed, and the house shall have been purified, the word ("Caution") should be substituted, as denoting suspicion of the disease, and the inhabitants of such house should not be at liberty to move out or communicate with other persons, until, by the authority of the local board, the mark shall have been removed.

In some towns it may be found possible to appropriate a public hospital to this purpose, or should any barrack exist in the neighbourhood, it might, under the authority of the Commander of the Forces, be similarly applied.

Wherever it may be allowed to remove the sick from their own habitations to the previously selected and detached buildings, the houses from which they have been so removed, as well as the houses in which the sick have chosen to remain, should be thoroughly purified in the following manner:

Decayed articles, such as rags, cordage, papers, old clothes, hangings, should be burnt; filth of every description removed, clothing and furniture should be submitted to copious effusions of water, and boiled in a strong ley; drains and privies thoroughly cleansed by streams of water and chloride of lime; ablution of wood work should be performed by a strong ley of soap and water; the walls of the house, from the cellar to the garret, should be hot lime-washed, all loose and decayed pieces of plastering should be removed.

Free and continued admission of fresh air to all parts of the house and furniture should be enjoined for at least a week.

It is impossible to impress too strongly the necessity of extreme cleanliness and free ventilation, they are points of the very greatest importance, whether in the houses of the sick, or generally as a measure of precaution.

It is recommended that those who may fall vic-victims to this formidable disease, should be buried in a detached ground in the vicinity of the house that may have been selected for the reception of cholera patients. By this regulation it is intended to confine as much as possible every source of infection to one spot; on the same principle, all persons who may be employed in the removal of the sick from their own houses, as well as all those who may attend upon cholera patients in the capacity of nurses, should live apart from the rest of the community.

It should here be observed, that the fewer the number of persons employed in these duties, the better, as then the chance of spreading the infection by their means will be diminished.

Wherever objections arise to the removal of the sick from the healthy, or other causes exist to render such a step not advisable, the same prospect of success in extinguishing the seeds of the pestilence cannot be expected.

Much, however, may be done, even in these difficult circumstances, by following the same principles of prudence, and by avoiding all unnecessary communication with the public out of doors; all articles of food, or other necessaries required by the family, should be placed in front of the house, and received by one of the inhabitants of the house, after the person delivering them shall have retired.

Until the time during which the contagion of cholera lies dormant in the human frame has been more accurately ascertained, it will be necessary for the sake of perfect security, that convalescents from the disease, and those who have had any communication with them should be kept under observation for a period of not less than twenty days.

The occupiers of each house, where the disease may occur, or be supposed to have occurred, are enjoined to report the fact immediately to the local board of health in the town where they reside, in order that the professional member of such board, may immediately visit, report, and if permitted to do so, cause the patient to be removed to the place allotted for the sick.

In every town the name and residence of each of the members of the district committee should be fixed on the doors of the church, or other conspicuous place.

All intercourse with any infected town, and the neighbouring country, must be prevented by the best means within the power of the Magistrates, who will have to make regulations for the supply of provisions; but such regulations are intended only for extreme cases; and the difficulty of carrying such a plan into effect on any extended scale will undoubtedly be great, but, as a precaution of great importance, it is most essential that it should be an object of consideration, in order to guard against the spreading of infection.

Other measures, of a more coercive nature, may be rendered expedient for the common safety, if unfortunately so fatal a disease should ever show itself in this country in the terrific way in which it has appeared in various parts of Europe; and it may become necessary to draw troops, or a strong body of police, around infected places, so as utterly to exclude the inhabitants from all intersourse with the country; and we feel sure what is demanded for the common safety of the state, will always be acquiesed in with a willing submission to the necessity which imposes it.

The Board particularly invites attention to a fact confirmed by all the communications received from abroad, viz. that the poor, ill fed, and unhealthy part of the population, and especially those who have been addicted to drinking spirituous liquors, and indulgence in irregular habits, have been the greatest sufferers from this disease, and that the infection has been most virulent, and has spread more rapidly and ex-extensively in the districts of towns where the streets are narrow, and the population crowded, and where little or no attention has been paid to cleanliness and ventilation. They are aware of the difficulty of removing the evils referred to, but they trust that attention thus awakened will insure the most active endeavours of all Magistrates, resident Clergymen, and persons of influence or authority, to promote their mitigation, and as the amount of danger, and the necessity of precaution, may become more apparent, they will look with increased confidence to the individual exertions of those who may be enabled to employ them beneficially in furtherance of the suggestions above stated.

Board of Health, College of Physicians, October 20, 1831.

THE following are the early symptoms of the disease in its most marked form, as it occurred to the observation of Dr. Russell and Dr. Barry, at St. Petersburgh, corroborated by the accounts from other places where the disease has prevailed:

Giddiness, sick stomach, nervous agitation, intermittent, slow, or small pulse, cramps beginning at the tops of the fingers and toes, and rapidly approaching the trunk, give the first warning.

Vomiting or purging, or both these evacuations of a liquid like rice-water or whey, or barley-water, come on; the features become sharp and contracted, the eye sinks, the look is expressive of terror and wildness; the lips, face, neck, hands, and feet, and soon after the thighs, arms, and whole surface assume a leaden, blue, purple, black, or deep brown tint, according to the complexion of the individual, varying in shade with the intensity of the attack. The fingers and toes are reduced in size, the skin and soft parts parts covering them are wrinkled, shrivelled and folded; the nails put on a bluish pearly white; the larger superficial veins are marked by flat lines of a deeper black; the pulse becomes either small as a thread, and scarcely vibrating, or else totally extinct.

The skin is deadly cold and often damp, the tongue always moist, often white and loaded, but flabby and chilled like a piece of dead flesh. The voice is nearly gone; the respiration quick, irregular, and imperfectly performed. The patient speaks in a whisper. He struggles for breath, and often lays his hand on his heart to point out the seat of his distress. Sometimes there are rigid spasms of the legs, thighs, and loins. The secretion of urine is totally suspended; vomiting and purgings, which are far from being the most important or dangerous symptoms, and which in a very great number of cases of the disease, have not been profuse, or have been arrested by medicine early in the attack, succeed.

It is evident that the most urgent and peculiar symptom of this disease is the sudden depression of the vital powers: proved by the diminished action of the heart, the coldness of the surface and extremities, and the stagnant state of the whole circulation. It is important to advert to this fact, as pointing out the instant measures which may safely and beneficially be employed where medical aid cannot immediately be procured. All means tending to restore the circulation and maintain the warmth of the body should be had recourse to without delay. The patients should always immediately be put to bed, wrapt up in hot blankets, and warmth should be sustained by other external applications, such as repeated frictions with flannels and camphorated spirits; poultices of mustard and linseed (equal parts) to the stomach, particularly where pain and vomiting exist; similar poultices to the feet and legs, to restore their warmth. The returning heat of the body body may be promoted by bags containing hot salt or bran applied to different parts of it. For the same purpose of restoring and sustaining the circulation, white wine whey, with spice, hot brandy and water, or sal volatile, in the dose of a teaspoonful in hot water, frequently repeated, or from five to twenty drops of some of the essential oils, as peppermint, cloves, or cajeput, in a wine glass of water, may be administered; with the same view, where the stomach will bear it, warm broth with spice may be employed. In very severe cases, or where medical aid is difficult to be obtained, from twenty to forty drops of laudanum may be given, in any of the warm drinks previously recommended.

These simple means are proposed as resources in the incipient stage of the disease, where medical aid has not yet been obtained.

In reference to the further means to be adopted in the treatment of this disease, it is necessary to state, that no specific remedy has yet been ascertained; nor has any plan of cure been sufficiently commended by success to warrant its express recommendation from authority. The Board have already published a detailed statement of the methods of treatment adopted in India, and of the different opinions entertained as to the use of bleeding, emetics, calomel, opium, &c. There is reason to believe that more information on this subject may be obtained from those parts of the continent where the disease is now prevailing; but even should it be otherwise, the greatest confidence may be reposed in the intelligence and zeal which the medical practitioners of this country will employ in establishing an appropriate method of cure.

St. James's Palace, October 20, 1831.

An Address from the Inhabitants of South Africa has been presented to Her Majesty, and graciously received.

St. James's-Palace, October 19, 1831.

This day Monsieur Falck, Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary from the King of the Netherlands, had an audience of His Majesty to deliver a letter from his Sovercign:

To which he was introduced by Lord Viscount Palmerston, His Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, and conducted by Sir Robert Chester, Knt. Master of the Ceremonies.

At the Court at St. James's, October 19, 1831.

CEREMONIAL of the Investiture of General Sir Ronald Craufurd Ferguson, with the Ensigns of a Knight Grand Cross of the Most Honourable Military Order of the Bath.

The following Knights Grand Crosses, in their mantles and collars of the Order, assembled at St. James's-Palace, viz. His Royal Highness the Duke of Cumberland; Lord De Saumarez; Lord Hill; the Right Honourable Sir James Kempt; and Sir Thomas Hislop, Bart.; attended by the undernamed Officers of the Order, in their mantles, chains, and badges, viz. Sir George Nayler, Knt. Genealogist of the Order; Algernon Greville, Esq. Bath King of Arms; and Captain Michael Seymour, R. N. Register and Secretary of the Order.

At two o'clock, the Knights Grand Crosses were called called over, and, with the Officers of the Order, proceeded into the presence of the Sovereign in the Throne-room, with the usual reverences.

Then, by His Majesty's command, General Sir Ronald Craufurd Ferguson was introduced into the Royal Presence between the two Junior Knights Grand Crosses present, preceded by Bath King of Arms, bearing the ribband, badge, and star of a Knight Grand Cross of the Order upon a crimson velvet cushion

His Royal Highness the Duke of Cumberland, having thereupon received from Bath King of Arms the ribband and badge, presented them to the Sovereign, and, Sir Ronald Craufurd Ferguson kneeling, His Majesty was graciously pleased to put the same over the General's right shoulder; Sir Ronald Craufurd Ferguson, rising, had the honour to kiss the Sovereign's hand, and, having received from His Majesty the star of the Order, withdrew.

The Knights Grand Crosses were then again called over, and, with the Officers of the Order, retired from the presence of the Sovereign, with the usual reverences.

St. James's Palace, October 19, 1831.

His Majesty held a Chapter of the Most Illustrious Order of St. Patrick: The following Knights Companions in their Collars assembled in the entrée room, viz.: His Royal Highness the Duke of Cumberland, the Marquess of Thomond, the Marquess of Ormonde, the Earl of Meath, and the Earl of Fingall, attended by Sir William Betham, Ulster King of Arms, Knight Attendant, in his Mantle, Chain and Badge. At half past one o'clock the Knights Companions were called over by Ulster, and proceeded into the presence of the Sovereign, who was seated in the Chair of State; and the Knights Knights Companions took their respective seats at the table according to the order of their stalls. By command of the Sovereign the Marquess of Clanricarde was then introduced into the Royal Presence and knighted by His Majesty with the sword of state; after which, his Lordship having kissed the Sovereign's hand, retired. The Earl of Charlemont was then introduced, and having in like manner received the honour of knighthood from the Sovereign, also retired.

Ulster King of Arms, by the Sovereign's command, then read a new statute, setting forth that, "whereas by the Statutes of the Most Illustrious Order of St. Patrick certain limitations of the number of Knights of the said Order are laid down and established; the King, as Sovereign of the said Most Illustrious Order, has been pleased, upon the solemn occasion of the Royal Coronation of their Majesties, to dispense with the said limitations and qualification, and to declare and appoint, that the Most Honourable Arthur Blundell Sandys Trumbull Marquess of Downshire, the Most Honourable Ulick John Marquess of Clanricarde, the Right Honourable Francis William Earl of Charlemont, and the Right Honourable Francis James Earl of Llandaff, shall be Extra Knights of the said Most Illustrious Order of St. Patrick, and shall hold and enjoy all titles, privileges, immunities, rights and advantages which the Knights of the said Order may lawfully hold and enjoy, and that the said Extra Knights shall in all Chapters of the said Order and other solemnities rank after the Regular and Extra Knights now existing, and before any Regular Knights hereafter to be made, and shall among themselves rank in the order in which their names are hereinbefore enumerated; and that on the death of any one of the said Extra Knights, the vacancy thereby created shall not be filled up."

Ulster then announced to the Chapter, that Ulick John

John Marquess of Clanricarde had been declared a Knight of the Most Illustrious Order of St. Patrick, and his Lordship being received at the door of the Chapter-Room by the Earl of Meath and the Earl of Fingall, the two Junior Knights present, was conducted between them to His Majesty, preceded by Ulster, (bearing the ensigns of the Order upon a velvet cushion), the Marquess kneeling near the Sovereign, and Ulster presenting on his knee the ribband and badge of the Order, His Majesty, assisted by His Royal Highness the Duke of Cumberland and the Marquess of Thomond, the two Senior Knights present, put the same over the Marquess of Clanricarde's right shoulder, pronouncing the admonition and administering the oath, after which his Lordship again had the honour to kiss the Sovereign's hand.

The Earl of Charlemont was then introduced and invested with the same ceremonies.

The Chapter being ended, Ulster, by command of the Sovereign, called over the Knights Companions, and a procession was made from the Royal Closet in the same order as before.

St. James's-Palace, October 19, 1831.

The King was this day pleased to confer the honour of Knighthood upon John Hollams, Esq. Mayor of Deal, in the county of Kent.

St. James's-Palace, October 19, 1831.

The King was this day pleased to confer the honour of Knighthood upon Colonel Archibald Maclaine, Companion of the Most Honourable Military Order of the Bath, and Knight of the Royal and distinguished Order of Charles the Third of Spain.

Foreign-Office, October 18, 1831.

The King has been graciously pleased to appoint Michael Bruce, Esq. to be the Commissioner on the part of His Majesty to meet the Commissioner appointed by the Government of Buenos Ayres, under an Agreement concluded at Buenos Ayres on the 30th of July 1830, for the investigation and liquidation of certain claims of British subjects pending against the Government of Buenos Ayres, for acts of violence committed by privateers of the Republic during the late war with Brazil.

SUPPLEMENT

TO THE

LONDON GAZETTE of NOVEMBER 1, 1831.

By the KING.

A PROCLAMATION.

WILLIAM, R.

WHEREAS in divers parts of Great Britain, and more particularly in the towns of Derby and Nottingham, and in the city of Bristol, tumultuous assemblages of people have taken place, and outrages of the most violent description have been committed both upon the persons and property of divers of Our subjects; and whereas all the restraints of law and order have been overborne and trodden under foot by such lawless multitudes, the mansions of individuals violently entered, pillaged, and set on fire, the ordinary course of justice forcibly interrupted, the gaols for the confinement of criminals broken into and destroyed, and malefactors and persons charged with offences let loose upon the public, to the great disturbance and danger of the common weal, and the subversion of established Government: And whereas the welfare and happiness of all nations do, under Divine Providence, chiefly depend upon the observance and enforcement of the law: And whereas it is Our firm determination faithfully to discharge the duty imposed on Us, to preserve the public peace, and vigorously to exert the powers which We possess for the protection of all Our subjects, in the entire enjoyment of their rights and liberties; We, therefore, being resolved to suppress the wicked and flagitious practices aforesaid, have thought fit, by and with the advice of Our Privy Council, to issue this Our Royal Proclamation, solemnly warning all Our liege subjects to guard against every attempt to violate the law, and to abstain from every act inconsistent with the peace and good order of society; and We do hereby charge and command all sheriffs, justices of the peace, chief magistrates of cities, boroughs, and corporations, and all the magistrates throughout Great Britain, that they do effectually repress all tumults, riots, outrages, and breaches of the peace within their respective jurisdictions; and that they do make diligent enquiry in order to discover and bring to justice the movers and perpetrators of all such seditious and wicked acts as aforesaid: And We do further earnestly and solemnly exhort, enjoin, call upon, and command all Our liege subjects, of all ranks and conditions, that they do come forward upon the first appearance or apprehension of any such disturbances as aforesaid, as they are bound by their duty to Us, by their regard for the general interest, and by the obligation of the law, and that they be actively aiding and assisting to all sheriffs, justices of the peace, and other magistrates, in enforcing the law against evil doers, and in protecting their fellow-subjects in the enjoyment of their property and the exercise of their rights, against all forcible, illegal, and unconstitutional interference, controul, or aggression.

Given at Our Court at St. James's, this second day of November one thousand eight hundred and thirty-one, and in the second year of Our reign.

SECOND SUPPLEMENT

TO THE

LONDON GAZETTE of NOVEMBER 18, 1831.

At the Council-Chamber, Whitehall, the 21st day of November 1831,

By the Lords of His Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council.

WHEREAS by an Act of Parliament, passed in the sixth year of the reign of His late Majesty King George the Fourth, intituled "An Act to repeal "the several laws relating to the performance of "Quarantine, and to make other provisions in lieu "thereof," it is, amongst other things, enacted, "that it shall and may be lawful for the Lords and "others of His Majesty's Privy Council, or any two "or more of them, to make such Order as they

" shall see necessary and expedient upon any un" foreseen emergency, or in any particular case or
" cases with respect to any vessel arriving and
" having any infectious disease or distemper on " board, or on board of which any infectious disease
" or distemper may have appeared in the course " of the voyage, or arriving under any other alarm" ing or suspicious circumstances as to infection,
" although such vessels shall not have come from " any place from which His Majesty, His heirs and
" successors, by and with the advice of His Privy " Council, may have adjudged and declared it pro" bable that the plague, or any such infectious dis" ease or distemper, may be brought; and also with " respect to the persons, goods, wares, and merchan" dise, and other articles aforesaid, on board the same;
" and in case of any infectious disease or distemper
" appearing or breaking out in the United King" dom, or the islands of Guernsey, Jersey, Alderney, " Sark, and Man, to make such orders and give " such directions, in order to cut off all communi" cation between any persons infected with any " such disease or distemper and the rest of His " Majesty's subjects, as shall appear to the said
" Lords, or others of His Majesty's Privy Council, " or any two or more of them, to be necessary and
" expedient for that purpose:" and whereas the infectious disease or distemper called the Spasmodic Cholera hath appeared and broken out within the United Kingdom: and whereas, in order to cut off all communication between any persons infected with the said disease or distemper and the rest of His Majesty's subjects, it doth appear to the Lords and others of His Majesty's Privy Council necessary and expedient that Boards of Health, to be constituted as hereinafter mentioned, should be established within such cities, towns, and other places within the United Kingdom as may be affected with, or as may be in danger of becoming affected with, the

the said disease, and that proper measures be taken for securing the communication to such medical boards of authentic intelligence respecting the actual state of the public health within any such city, town, or place, and the condition of all persons therein labouring under the said disease, or any other disease highly dangerous to the health of His Majesty's subjects:

Now, therefore, it is hereby ordered by the Lords and others of His Majesty's Privy Council, in pursuance and exercise of the powers so vested in them as aforesaid, by the said Act of Parliament, and in pursuance of any other powers enabling them in that behalf, that Boards of Health shall forthwith be established in every city, town, or place within the United Kingdom, to which an order for that purpose shall be transmitted by the Lords and others of His Majesty's Privy Council, such order being certified by the signature of one of the Clerks in Ordinary of the Privy Council; and that such Boards shall be constituted in such manner, and shall proceed in the execution of the duties committed to them in such form, and according to such regulations, as shall be directed and prescribed by any order so to be issued and certified as aforesaid: and it is further ordered, that every practitioner of medicine within every city, town, or place, in which every such Board shall be so constituted, shall and is hereby commanded and required to make to such Board a daily report, under his hand, containing a full, true, and particular account of the condition of every person attended by such medical practitioner who may be affected with the said disease, or with any other disease highly dangerous to the health of His Majesty's subjects; and all medical practitioners who shall neglect or omit to make any such return by the time, or at the place, or in the manner or form so to be required, or who shall in any such return wilfully make any false statement, are hereby warned and admonished that the several penalties consequent upon any such disobedience to the provisions of the before mentioned Act of Parliament will forthwith be enforced against them; and all mayors, magistrates, justices of the peace, and others, His Majesty's officers, civil and military, and subjects whomsoever, are hereby commanded to be aiding and assisting, to the utmost of their several abilities, in enforcing prompt obedience to this present Order, and in punishing by all lawful ways and means any neglect or violation thereof.

LONDON GAZETTE of NOVEMBER 22, 1831.

By the KING.

A PROCLAMATION.

WILLIAM, R.

WHEREAS certain of Our subjects, in different parts of Our Kingdom, have recently promulgated plans for voluntary associations, under the denomination of Political Unions, to be composed of separate bodies, with various divisions and subdivisions, under leaders with a gradation of ranks and authority, and distinguished by certain badges, and subject to the general controul and direction of a superior committee or council, for which associations no warrant has been given by Us, or by any ap-appointed by Us on that behalf: and whereas, according to the plans so promulgated as aforesaid, a power appears to be assumed of acting independently of the Civil Magistrates, to whose requisition, calling upon them to be enrolled as constables, the individuals composing such associations are bound, in common with the rest of Our subjects, to yield obedience: and whereas such associations so constituted and appointed, under such separate direction and command, are obviously incompatible with the faithful performance of this duty, at variance with the acknowledged principles of the constitution, and subversive of the authority with which We are invested, as the Supreme Head of the State, for the protection of the public peace: and whereas We are determined to maintain, against all encroachments on Our Royal power, those just prerogatives of the Crown, which have been given to Us for the preservation of the peace and order of society, and for the general advantage and security of Our loyal subjects: We have, therefore, thought it Our bounden duty, with and by the advice of Our Privy Council, to issue this Our Royal Proclamation, declaring all such associations, so constituted and appointed as aforesaid, to be unconstitutional and illegal, and earnestly warning and enjoining all Our subjects to abstain from entering into such unauthorised combinations, whereby they may draw upon themselves the penalties attending a violation of the laws, and the peace and security of Our dominions may be endangered.

Given at Our Court at St. James's, this twenty-first day of November one thousand eight hundred and thirty-one, and in the second year of Our reign.

GOD save the KING.

At the Council-Chamber, Whitehall, the 21st day of November 1831,

By the Lords of His Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council.

WHEREAS by an Act of Parliament, made and passed in the sixth year of the reign of His late Majesty King George the Fourth, intituled "An "Act to repeal the several laws relating to the per- "formance of Quarantine, and to make other provi- "sions in lieu thereof, it is, amongst other things, "enacted, that it shall and may be lawful for the Lords "and others of His Majesty's Privy Council, or any "two or more of them, to make such Order as they "shall see necessary and expedient upon any un- "foreseen emergency, or in any particular case or "cases with respect to any vessel arriving and "having any infectious disease or distemper on "board, or on board of which any infectious disease "or distemper may have appeared in the course "of the voyage, or arriving under any other alarm- "ing or suspicious circumstances as to infection, "although such vessels shall not have come from "any place from which His Majesty, His heirs or "successors, by and with the advice of His Privy "Council, may have adjudged and declared it pro- "bable that the plague, or any such infectious dis- "ease or distemper, may be brought; and also with re- "spect to the persons, goods, wares, and merchandise, "and other articles as aforesaid, on board the same; "and in case of any infectious disease or distemper "appearing or breaking out in the United King- "dom, or the islands of Guernsey, Jersey, Alderney, "Sark, and Man, to make such orders and give "such directions, in order to cut off all communi- "cation between any persons infected with any "such disease or distemper and the rest of His "Ma-

" Majesty's subjects, as shall appear to the said " Lords, or others of His Majesty's Privy Council, " or any two or more of them, to be necessary and " expedient for that purpose ;" and whereas there hath appeared and broken out in the United Kingdom, an infectious disease or distemper, called the Spasmodic Cholera : and whereas in order to cut off all communication between persons infected with the said disease or distemper and the rest of His Majesty's subjects, the Lords and others of His Privy Council do deem it expedient, that all nuisances tending to promote such infection, should forthwith be abated and removed ; it is, therefore, ordered by the Lords and others of His Majesty's Privy Council, in pursuance and exercise of the powers in them vested by the before recited Act of Parliament, and of all other powers enabling them in that behalf, that if it shall at any time be made to appear to any two or more of His Majesty's Justices of the Peace, on the certificate of any medical practitioner or practitioners, being a member or members of any board of health, constituted in pursuance of any Order of His Majesty's Privy Council, and on the oath of any one or more credible witness or witnesses, that there exists within the jurisdiction of such justices, any public nuisance injurious, or likely to become injurious, to the health of His Majesty's subjects, it shall be lawful for such justices, and they are hereby required and commanded to make an order, under their hands, addressed to the overseers or overseer, guardians or guardian, of the poor of any parish or extra-parochial place in which such nuisance shall be so proved to exist, requiring them or him to proceed forthwith to abate or remove such nuisance ; and all overseers and guardians of the poor to whom any such order shall be so addressed, are hereby required and enjoined, on the receipt by them, or any of them, of any such order, forthwith to proceed to the abatement or removal of any such nuisance ; and for that purpose to do, or cause to be done, all such acts as may be necessary and proper for that end; and all His Majesty's subjects are hereby required to be aiding and assisting to such overseers and guardians of the poor as aforesaid in the execution of any such order as may so be made by any such justices as aforesaid: and the Lords and others of His Majesty's Privy Council do hereby declare, that for all acts, deeds, matters, and things which may be necessarily and properly done by any such justices of the peace, overseers, guardians of the poor, or other His Majesty's subjects, in execution and furtherance of this present Order, or of any order so to be made by any such justices as aforesaid, this Order shall be their full and sufficient warrant: and it is hereby further ordered, that this Order shall extend and apply to such places as shall, from time to time, be for that purpose directed by any Order to be made by any two or more of the Lords and others of His Majesty's Privy Council, such Order being certified to be a true Order, under the hand of one of the Clerks in Ordinary of the Privy Council. *C. LONDON GAZETTE of DECEMBER 6, 1831.

At the Council-Chamber, Whitehall, the 13th day of October 1831.

By the Lords of His Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council.

IT is this day ordered by their Lordships, that all vessels arriving in the United Kingdom, or at the islands of Guernsey, Jersey, Alderney, Sark, or Man, from any port or place situate between the Skaw and Rotterdam, inclusive, or from the Danish territories outside the Baltic, or from ports or places on the River Weser, be, together with their crews and pilots, and persons, vessels, and boats having had communication therewith, subject to the restraint of quarantine, according to the provisions of the Act of the sixth of George the Fourth, cap. 78.

C. C. Greville.

At the Court at St. James's, the 21st day of November 1831,

PRESENT,

The KING's Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

WHEREAS by an Act, passed in the fourth year of the reign of His Majesty King George the Fourth, intituled "An Act to authorise His "Ma-

" Majesty, under certain circumstances, to regulate " the duties and drawbacks on goods imported or " exported in foreign vessels, and to exempt certain " foreign vessels from pilotage," His Majesty is authorised, by and with the advice of His Privy Council, or by His Majesty's Order or Orders in Council, to be published from time to time in the London Gazette, to authorise the importation into, or exportation from, the United Kingdom, or from any other of His Majesty's dominions, of any goods, wares, or merchandise which may be legally imported or exported in foreign vessels, upon payment of such and the like duties only, and with the like drawbacks, bounties, and allowances, as are charged or granted upon similar goods, wares, or merchandise when imported or exported in British vessels, provided always, that before any such Order or Orders shall be issued, satisfactory proof shall have been laid before His Majesty and His Privy Council that goods, wares, and merchandise imported into, or exported from, the foreign country in whose favour such remission of duties, or such drawbacks, bounties, or allowances, shall be granted, are charged with the same duties, and are allowed the same drawbacks, bounties, or allowances when imported into, or exported from, such foreign country in British vessels, as are levied or allowed on similar goods, wares, and merchandise when imported or exported in vessels of such country:

And whereas by an Act, passed in the fifth year of the reign of His said late Majesty, intituled " An Act to indemnify all persons concerned in " advising, issuing, or acting under a certain Order " in Council, for regulating the tonnage duties on " certain foreign vessels, and to amend an Act of " the last session of Parliament, for authorising " His Majesty, under certain circumstances, to re- " gulate the duties and drawbacks on goods im" ported

" ported or exported in any foreign vessels," His Majesty is authorised (in certain cases), by and with the advice of His Privy Council, or by His Majesty's Order or Orders in Council, to be published from time to time in the London Gazette, to permit and authorise the entry into any port or ports of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, or of any other of His Majesty's dominions, of any foreign vessels, upon payment of such and the like duties of tonnage only as are or may be charged or granted upon, or in respect of, British vessels:

And whereas satisfactory proof has been laid before His Majesty and His Privy Council, that goods, wares, and merchandise, imported into, or exported from, the dominions of the Emperor of Austria, are charged with the same duties, and are allowed the same drawbacks, bounties, or allowances, when imported or exported in British vessels, as are levied or allowed on similar goods, wares, and merchandise when imported or exported from the said dominions of the Emperor of Austria, in Austrian vessels, and that British vessels are charged with no other or higher tonnage duties on their entrance into the ports of the dominions of the Emperor of Austria than are levied on Austrian vessels: His Majesty, by virtue of the powers vested in Him by the Acts above recited, and by and with the advice of His Privy Council, is pleased to order, and it is hereby ordered, that from and after the date hereof, Austrian vessels entering or departing from the ports of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, together with the cargoes on board the same, such cargoes consisting of articles which may be legally imported or exported, shall not be subject to any other or higher duties or charges whatever, than are or shall be levied on British vessels entering or departing from such ports, or on similar articles when imported into or exported from such ports in British vessels; and also that such articles when exported from the said ports in Austrian vessels shall be entitled to the same bounties, drawbacks, and allowances that are granted on similar articles when exported in British vessels.

And the Right Honourable the Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury, are to give the necessary directions herein accordingly.

C. C. Greville.

The King has been pleased to direct letters patent to be passed under the Great Seal of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, to erect and establish a Court of Judicature, to be called "the Court of Bankruptcy;" and also to constitute and appoint the Honourable Thomas Erskine, one of His Majesty's Counsel learned in the Law, to be Chief Judge of the said Court; Albert Pell, one of His Majesty's Serjeants at Law; John Cross, one of His Majesty's Serjeants at Law, and Attorney-General for the county palatine of Lancaster; and George Rose, Esq. one of His Majesty's Counsel learned in the Law; to be the other Judges of the said Court; and also to constitute and appoint Charles Frederick Williams, Esq. one of His Majesty's Counsel learned in the Law; John Herman Merivale, Joshua Evans, John Samuel Martin Fonblanque, Robert George Cecil Fane, and Edward Holroyd, Esqrs. Barristers at Law; to be Commissioners of the said Court.

FROM THE

LONDON GAZETTE of DECEMBER 9, 1831.

St. James's-Palace, December 6, 1831.

THIS day His Majesty proceeded in state from St. James's-Palace to the House of Peers, where he arrived about a quarter past two o'clock; and, having alighted from the state coach, was received at the portico by the Great Officers of State and others, and proceeded to the robing-room in the customary manner.

His Majesty was there robed, and having put on the imperial crown, the procession moved into the House in the usual order.

His Majesty being seated upon the Throne, the Great Officers of State and others standing on the right and left, Sir Thomas Tyrwhitt, Knt. Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod, was sent with a message from His Majesty to the House of Commons, commanding their attendance in the House of Peers. The Commons being come thither accordingly, His Majesty was pleased to deliver the following most gracious Speech to both Houses of Parliament:

My Lords, and Gentlemen,

I HAVE called you together that you may resume, without further delay, the important duties to which the circumstances of the times require your immediate attention; and I sincerely regret the inconvenience which I am well aware you must experience from from so early a renewal of your labours, after the short interval allowed you for repose from the fatigues of the last session.

I feel it to be My duty, in the first place, to recommend to your most careful consideration the measures which will be proposed to you for a reform in the Commons House of Parliament; a speedy and satisfactory settlement of this question becomes daily of more pressing importance to the security of the State and to the contentment and welfare of My people.

I deeply lament the distress which still prevails in many parts of My dominions; and for which the preservation of peace, both at home and abroad, will, under the blessing of Divine Providence, afford the best and most effectual remedy. I feel assured of your disposition to adopt any practicable measures, which you will always find me ready and anxious to assist, both for removing the causes and mitigating the effects of the want of employment, which the embarrassments of commerce and the consequent interruption of the pursuits of industry have occasioned.

It is with great regret that I have observed the existence of a disease at Sunderland, similar in its appearance and character to that which has existed in many parts of Europe. Whether it is indigenous, or has been imported from abroad, is a question involved in much uncertainty; but its progress has neither been so extensive nor so fatal as on the Continent. It is not, however, the less necessary to use every precaution against the further extension of this malady; and the measures recommended by those who have had the best opportunities of observing it, as most effectual for this purpose, have been adopted.

In parts of Ireland a systematic opposition has been made to the payment of tithes, attended, in some instances, with afflicting results; and it will be one one of your first duties to inquire whether it may not be possible to effect improvements in the laws respecting this subject, which may afford the necessary protection to the Established Church, and at the same time remove the present causes of complaint.

But in this and in every other question affecting Ireland, it is, above all things, necessary to look to the best means of securing internal peace and order; which alone seem wanting to raise a country, blessed by Providence with so many natural advantages, to a state of the greatest prosperity.

The conduct of the Portuguese Government, and the repeated injuries to which My subjects have been exposed, have prevented a renewal of My diplomatic relations with that kingdom. The state of a country, so long united with this by the ties of the most intimate alliance, must necessarily be to Me an object of the deepest interest. The return to Europe of the elder branch of the illustrious House of Braganza, and the dangers of a disputed succession, will require My most vigilant attention to events, by which not only the safety of Portugal, but the general interests of Europe, may be affected.

The arrangement which I announced to you at the close of the last session, for the separation of the States of Holland and Belgium, has been followed by a Treaty between the Five Powers and the King of the Belgians, which I have directed to be laid before you as soon as the ratifications shall have been exchanged.

A similar Treaty has not yet been agreed to by the King of the Netherlands; but I trust the period is not distant when that Sovereign will see the necessity of acceding to an arrangement in which the Plenipotentiaries of the Five Powers have unanimously concurred, and which has been framed with the most careful and impartial attention to all the interests concerned.

I have

I have the satisfaetion to inform you that I have coneluded with the King of the French a Convention, which I have direeted to be laid before you, the objeet of whieh is the effeetual suppression of the African slave trade. This Convention, having for its basis the eoneession of reeiproeal rights, to be mutually exercised in speeified latitudes and plaees, will, I trust, enable the naval forees of the two eountries, by their eombined efforts, to aeeomplish an objeet whieh is felt by both to be so important to the interests of humanity.

Regarding the state of Europe generally, the friendly assurances whieh I receive from Foreign Powers, and the union whieh subsists between Me and My Allies, inspire Me with a eonfident hope that peaee will not be interrupted.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons,

I have direeted the estimates for the ensuing year to be prepared, and they will, in due time, be laid before you. I will take eare that they shall be formed with the strictest regard to eeonomy; and I trust to your wisdom and patriotism to make such provision as may be required for the public serviec.

My Lords. and Gentlemen,

The seenes of violence and outrage whieh have occurred in the city of Bristol, and in some other plaees, have caused Me the deepest affliction.

The authority of the laws must be vindicated by the punishment of offenees, whieh have produced so extensive a destruction of property, and so melaneholy a loss of life; but I think it right to direet your attention to the best means of improving the munieipal police of the kingdom, for the more effeetual protection of the public peace against the reeurrence of similar eommotions.

Sincerely attached to our free Constitution, I never never can sanction any interference with the legitimate exercise of those rights which secure to My people the privilege of discussing and making known their grievances; but, in respecting these rights, it is also My duty to prevent combinations, under whatever pretext, which in their form and character are incompatible with all regular government, and are equally opposed to the spirit and to the provisions of the law; and I know that I shall not appeal in vain to My faithful subjects to second My determined resolution to repress all illegal proceedings, by which the peace and security of My dominions may be endangered.
